Auto Offer Rejected

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers Union negotiators today unanimously recommended that new contract proposals by the Big Three automakers be rejected as "inadequate and inequitable."

In making their offers Tuesday, the auto companies said they constituted "the highest wage increases ever offered" the union.

The UAW national negotiating committees at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler said they had given careful consideration to the proposals, however, and found them to be unacceptable "when measured against the fantastic profitability and productivity of the automotive industry."

The union negotiators added the offers did not meet the "pressing needs of the automobile industry's workers and their families."

The recommendation that the proposals be rejected came as no surprise. It was expected, since the offers failed to meet several demands which the UAW had considered essential.

Meanwhile, the UAW is expected to select one of the Big Three companies as a strike target in the next two days.

Miner Residents Approve Water System Revenue Bonds, 139-9

MINER -- Residents of this community of about 650 approved the sale of $163,000 in revenue bonds to finance installation of a water system Tuesday 139 to 9.

A 4/7ths majority in favor of the proposal was required.

The water system will include a well, storage tank, pumping station and distribution system.

Construction will not begin until after the revenue bonds are sold. The government guarantees to buy the bonds at 4 1/2 per cent interest to be retired over 35 years, if no one else will buy them at a lower rate, Mrs. Anna Lewis, city clerk, said.

The federal housing and urban department approved the loan for the water system Jan. 12, 1967, provided the voters approved the system and 150 subscribers were obtained.

Customers pay $25 hook up charge and $10 deposit for water meter use, Mrs. Lewis said. She said the number of paid subscribers and those who have promised to subscribe will equal the necessary 150.

Customers rates will be $3.50 per month minimum for the first 2,000 gallons; $1 per 1,000 gallons for the next 2,000 gallons, 60 cents per thousand for the next 5,000 gallons and 40 cents per thousand for the next 10,000 gallons.

Commercial rates start at $4 minimum for the first 2,000 gallons.

Alex C. Waters & Associates Engineers planned the system.

Kerner's Election Expected

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP) -- Gov. Otto Kerner, Illinois Democrat, was expected to be elected chairman of the Midwestern Governors Conference at its final session today.

He would succeed Gov. James A. Rhodes, Ohio Republican.

Gov. Nils A. Boe, South Dakota Republican, was expected to be elected vice chairman succeeding Kerner.

Rhodes said the only business scheduled was action on resolutions and election of officers.

Resolutions cover a wide range of subjects, including beefing up National Guard riot training and problems of urban development to stem civil disorders, such as equal opportunity in jobs, housing, education, recreation.

Gov. Roger D. Branigin of Indiana said Tuesday he thought there was widespread discrimination in the judicial and parole systems.

Branigin said at the conference earlier that the setting of bail, sentences and parole practices were discriminatory as between the privileged and underprivileged.

Gov. Harold Le Vander of Minnesota said one remedy might be indeterminate sentences.

Gov. George Romney, Michigan Republican who is considered a potential presidential nominee, planned to leave today for Springfield, Mo., for the first in a series of speeches in 15 states on federal-state relationships and individual rights.

At a news conference, Gov. Robert Docking, Kansas Democrat, said a recent Junior Chamber of Commerce poll in Kansas showed Romney ahead of both former Vice President Richard Nixon and California and Ronald Reagan for the Republican nomination.

He added President Johnson, hurt by the Vietnam war, could not carry Kansas in 1968 in the slide which he did not foresee.

Conservative Wins Mississippi Runoff

The 48-year-old veteran of two decades in Congress, who lost his seniority for supporting the Republican presidential ticket three years ago, rallied hard-core segregationists and middle-of-the-roaders to his cause with a blistering attack on liberalism.

With reports from the last precincts from Tuesday's voting trickling in, Williams' lead over state Treasurer William Winter approached 60,000 votes. Winter, who topped first primary voting three weeks ago, led this time in only 20 of the 82 counties.

The Williams' vote carried white candidates to victory in all 22 local runoffs where Negroes opposed white candidates, dashing Negro hopes for winning sheriff's posts for the first time since Reconstruction.

Mobbed by several thousand well-wishers at this downtown motel headquarters early today, Williams blurted his thanks into a microphone.

He praised Winter as "a worthy and able man" and called on Democrats to close ranks to defeat Republican challenger Rubel Phillips of Jackson in the Nov. 7 general election. On a state level, the GOP offered only a gubernatorial candidate. They haven't elected a state official this century.

Returns from 1957 of the 2,124 precints gave Williams 348,771 votes and Winter 294,109.

The election hinged on two points from the outset: Whether Negro vote would solidify behind Winter after splitting in the first primary, and whether Williams could get the 124,000 votes of white supremacist Jimmy Swan, the No. 3 man in the first primary.

The reports did not appear in print in most Arab capitals where the press is controlled, but a Kuwait newspaper carried an account.

Up to 150 Egyptian generals and colonels have been reported detained.

Youths Continue Painting Houses

A progress report on the work improvement project being conducted by Negro youths in Sunset addition was made today by Harold Wiggin, member of the community betterment committee of Recovery Inc.

Wiggins also is president of the Missourians, a group of Sunset young adult leaders, who organized the project.

About 20 houses have been painted by teenagers who organized their first work party last week.

Trash was hauled Saturday. The city street department provided a dump truck. The city promised a mower for weed cutting.

Grocers provided lunches for the work crews Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Robert Lively said that more than 45 gallons of paint had been delivered. Most of it has been used. More paint is needed.

A follow up plan is being organized by the Missourians. A block party is planned for the workers and other projects for area improvements will be discussed.

Salvation Army Leader Tells Of Services, United Fund

Kenneth Sharp, St. Louis, Salvation Army extension director of the Salvation Army, spoke to two service clubs in Sikeston Tuesday to solicit support of the United Fund drive.

The division headquarters in St. Louis administers the Army's programs in 425 service units in Missouri and southern Illinois.

A service unit, differs from the Army's corps center in that it is administered entirely by local persons. The corps center is headed by a Salvation Army officer. There are 39 corps centers in the division.

The Sikeston service unit is composed of a committee of volunteer workers in conjunction with the ministerial alliance. The ministers appoint one pastor to serve as the social worker for the Salvation Army. The Rev. Robert Jones, pastor of the First General Baptist church, recently replaced the Rev. James Trimble, pastor of the East Side Church of the Nazarene, as the social worker here. Trimble is moving to St. Louis county.

Jones will be the person to whom transients are referred. The social worker hears the hard luck stories and gives transients meal tickets, lodging or gasoline. The ministerial alliance receives the bills, which are given to Dale Beaird, treasurer of the Salvation Army unit.

Charles Blanton Jr. is the chairman of the Sikeston unit.

The local service units keep a certain percentage of the funds received through the United Fund drive and send the remainder to

Military Candidates Expected to Win

SAIGON (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, the military candidates for president and vice president in South Vietnam's election Sunday, appear certain to carry the rural areas where 80 per cent of the voters live.

The leading civilian candidate, former Premier Tran Van Huong, is making inroads against the military ticket in the urban areas of the eight major cities. He is expected to get more votes than his nine civilian rivals but not nearly enough to overtake the powerful military bloc.

These are the conclusions of Associated Press correspondents who felt the pulse of the country in interviews with more than 300 voters scattered from South Vietnam's northernmost provinces down into the Mekong delta.

The interviews indicated that only about one per cent of the 5.85 million registered voters have any idea of the campaign issues.

The Saigon intellectuals, the only people really discussing the election with any depth, are generally opposed to the military and support one of the four leading civilian tickets. One civilian slate headed by the Dai Viet party leader, Ha Thuc Ky, appears to have a major following in the northern provinces around Da Nang and Quang Tri. The Dai Viet political machine has been active there for years.

The three other leading civilians have pockets of support in the old imperial city of Hue, Da Nang, Nha Trang on the central coast, Dalat, Saigon and the delta cities of Can Tho and My Tho.

More than half of those interviewed said they were either undecided or did not wish to discuss their vote.

Rockwell Would Have Liked Near-Funeral

CULPEPER, Va. (AP) -- It was just the kind of near-funeral George Lincoln Rockwell might have wanted.

His small, fanatic band of American Nazis gained center stage in full glare of the national spotlight Tuesday--confronted by the U.S. Army, surrounded by television cameras.

Rockwell had cherished publicity--and did many things to get it.

As a corpse he attained his ultimate publicity.

But at the end of a day at times so weird it was like a bad movie, the body of the slain "fuerher" remained unburied and the Nazis refused to reveal where his body was or what they planned to do with it.

Rockwell's followers refused to doff their Nazi insignia and leave their swastika flag behind to enter the peaceful little Culpeper National Cemetery and bury their assassinated chief.

But those were the ground rules laid down by the Army. And when it came time for the government gravediggers to go home the Army rescinded its permission for ex-Navy Cmdr. Rockwell to be interred in Culpeper -- or any other military cemetery.

Red Chinese Cancel British Exit Visas

TOKYO (AP) -- Red China today canceled exit visas of British diplomats stationed in Peking, ordered their movements confined to 400-yard trips between home and office and threatened further retaliation for clashes between London police and Chinese mission personnel who fought them with axes and bats.

Peking Radio, charging that the British government "instigated ruffians to beat up" Chinese diplomats in London in a wild melee Tuesday, said in a broadcast that no British personnel would be allowed to leave their legation compound without submitting applications 48 hours in advance.

"The Chinese government hereby asks the British government in all seriousness: Where do you want to push the relations between China and Britain?" the broadcast said.

There was no immediate response in London, but Foreign Office sources indicated that the only course open to the British was to try to prevent new incidents at the Chinese mission in order not to endanger the British in Peking further. The Foreign Office said the Chinese instigated the clashes.

997 Prisoners Freed by Communists

SAIGON (AP) - Communist soldiers boldly moved into a provincial capital early today under cover of a heavy mortar barrage and freed 997 prisoners in the most dramatic action of the Red campaign to disrupt and discredit South Vietnam's presidential election.

A wave of attacks in the five provinces making up the war zone bordering North Vietnam indicated an all-out effort to spread disaffection in the sector which has always been the most politically sensitive in the nation.

There were 29 reported attacks or incidents in the 1st Corps war zone, where the ground War and the political war have blended into a single fierce struggle in the past few days. While the attack on the jail in Quang Ngai was the most spectacular Red assult, the Communists also hit a power station, a helicopter field, a U.S. military advisory compound, a U.S. Seabee camp and a radio station.

The South Vietnamese suffered many casualties, including 70 killed and 104 wounded in a combined mortar and ground attack on a Vietnamese army post and district headquarters at Tam Ky.

Three Americans were reported killed and 44 wounded, while known Communist losses were six killed at Quang Ngai and 14 killed at Tam Ky.

In addition to the attacks in the 1st Corps area, Red mortars shelled a camp in the highland city of Dalat, and wounded 10 Americans Tuesday night in a barrage on artillery positions 20 miles northeast of Saigon.

Overshadowed by the intensified Communist campaign in the South, American pilots kept up heavy attacks on North Vietnam and flew 151 missions Tuesday.

LABOR DAY -- A TIME TO THINK

Labor Day, to be observed on September 4th this year, marks the termination of summer, in the minds of most people. It is the last long holiday of the season and is a time for the final outing of swimming, picnicking, boating, or just loafing. The meaning of Labor Day is lost for many in the frantic pursuit of fun. Never before have so many people been able to enjoy the leisure, the luxuries and comforts we see around us in these United States. The rights of labor have never been so certain, nor its obligation to act in a responsible manner more necessary. We must not become insensible to the time-honored virtues of thrift, competence and pride in a job well done.

These are the things that have made possible the turning of Labor Day into a holiday of fun and leisure. These are the things that Labor Day commemorates, and if the nation is to survive in its greatness, they will be needed as never before in this years to come. They are needed now desperately to back up the men in Viet Nam, let alone all future advancements in space, science, industry and technology. Think of these things as you go to the beach, the lake or to the mountains this Labor Day.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
THE STRONGEST CANDIDATE YET

As if the Democratic party in Missouri didn't have enough problems of its own with recent disclosures on activities of the state's junior U. S. Senator, along with the unofficial word that U. S. Rep. Thomas Curtis of St. Louis has all but decided to make the race for U. S. Senate next year.

When, and if, Tom Curtis enters the race, he will enhance the chances for a Republican victory by 100 fold; he is the ideal candidate for the GOP to field next year.

Rep. Curtis, a member of the House since 1950, is a proven vote-getter, battling Republicans in the primary and Democrats in the general election year after year. He has never been defeated for re-election, after losing his first time around in a rugged Republican primary in 1948. His record in Congress is excellent, and his leadership in the national GOP counsels is considerable.

Rep. Curtis is the strongest candidate for Senator the Republicans can put forth, and his willingness to sacrifice his years of seniority in the House is an indication that he feels he has a good chance to lead the Republican party to victory next year. He has not often been wrong in making political decisions.

There is no question that Curtis has been encouraged to make the race because of the recent disclosures on the activities of our junior U. S. Senator. His candidacy has been greatly enhanced, and will be even further enhanced should Sen. Long win next year's primary election, a possibility that should not be overlooked. It is also, to be sure, a possibility the Republicans and particularly Curtis undoubtedly are hoping and praying for.

Rep. Curtis will unquestionably wage the kind of campaign in 1968 that he was always waged in his own Second district -- vigorous, hard-hitting and more or less partisan. He can be expected to discuss a great many issues, including the conflict of interest question that now plagues Sen. Long.

We are convinced that the Republican party in Missouri faces, in 1968, its greatest opportunity to become once again a vibrant and active political entity. It is strange, indeed, that this opportunity for revival and new life should be handed to the GOP by the Democrats.

VICE ON THE RISE

The revised New York State Criminal Code which goes into effect on Friday, Sept. 1, will reduce the maximum penalty for prostitution from one year to 15 days.

JUST WHEN VENEREAL DISEASE is rising dangerously, prositution -- a principal cause -- is getting to be almost socially acceptable. Midtown New York is being compared to Rio de Janeiro's Avenida Atlantica, Paris' Rue Godot de Mauroy, or Rome's Passeggiata Archelogica or Via Veneto.

A chance in the New York criminal law next month will make prostitution about as harmless as spitting on the street. Even if convicted, the girls will spend only 15 days in jail. Almost certain is a decision to close down Women's Court and try prostitution cases in regular parts of Criminal Court.

Mary K. Lindsay, superintendent of the New York City House of Detention, says: "There will be hardly time to bring them in, give them a physical and a set of clothing before we send them out on the street again." And on the street they are almost bound to go. Of the 795 women arrested in midtown Manhattan in the first six months of this year, 67 per cent had prior prositution records. Each girl averaged seven arrests.

ABOUT HALF THE STATES have adequate laws against prostitution, although they exempt the customers. Even so, the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta said on May 1 that gonorrhea was pretty much out of control, spreading virtually unchecked in the nation's metropolitan centers. Gonorrhea has become so widespread that the center concentrates instead on the much more serious venereal disease, syphilis.

Of the reported cases of venereal disease, about half involve persons 25 years of age or younger. A very significant proportion of them are teenagers.

Despite the upcoming change in the New York law, New York City police have been cracking down on hookers. On the night of Aug. 20 and the early hours of the following morning police arrested 50 women in the Times Square area on prostitution charges. For the whole weekend, 256 women were booked.

Average bail ran to $300. Deputy Police Commissioner Jacques Nevard observes that even now: "Jail for the girls is a revolving door." Bail is not hard for the ponces (pimps) to arrange. A girl who makes as much as $150 a 12-hour working day -- prices actually go up as high as $500 -- may keep only $10 for herself.

OFFERING ONESELF for sexual intercourse for mercenary purposes goes back as far as recorded history. In ancient times and in some primitive societies, prostituion had religious connotation -- intercourse with temple maidens was an act of worship of the temple deity. The Columbia Encyclopedia says: "The Greek heterae were often women of intelligence and standing, but in Rome prostitutes (meretrices) were . . . forced to wear wigs and special garments."

History repeats. Bouffant vermilion coiffures, patterned stockings, and silver demi-minidresses are affected by Times Square prosties.

Even male prostitutes now seem in vogue. Variety reports that Andy Warhol's My Hustler, about a male homosexual hooker, "seems settled for a long, successful run" in New York. The best-selling book, Midnight Cowboy, is about a male hustler. In both sexes the relationship between prostitution and homosexuality is undeniably high. Many female prostitutes are lesbians. A high percentage also are drug addicts.

Eddie made the carpet for "Air Force One," the plane in which Lyndon B. Johnson stood when he took his first presidential oath.

Eddie made the huge oval "carpet of the United States in the Diplomatic Room at the White House.

Eddie has also made rugs or tapestries for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D.-N.Y., Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, the Vanderbilts, the Astors, Mary Martin, John Steinbeck, Prince Rainier of Monaco and Milton Berle.

In 1935 Eddie was 21 and pocket poor after five years of selling carpets for other firms. Then his brother, bandleader Shep Fields, gave him $500 as a wedding present.

"I decided to use it to start my own firm," said Eddie.

How was business? In two syllables it was "lousy." It was still bad in 1946 when Fields went to a night club in Hollywood to forget his troubles for the evening.

"A fortuneteller in the club told me that a man with the initials 'J.B.' would come into my life and change it," he recalled.

Soon after that Fields met an elderly Viennese, Joseph Blumfield, who had invented a hand-held rug-making machine.

Eddie bought the gadget from Blumfield under an arrangement that guaranteed him lifetime royalties and then set about improving it.

That machine, nicknamed "the magic needle," began to stitch a pattern of wealth for Fields.

Eddie now has 250 of the machines, each of which, he says, can turn out as much work in a day as 20 Japanese hand workers. In a year, although he keeps production figures secret, he claims they enable him to manufacture as much yardage as the entire carpeting industry of Persia at its peak.

"I never have patented my magic needles, because it would simply make it that much easier for competitors to steal the secret," he said. "But they are checked out individually to my workmen, and at night I keep them locked in a steel and concrete vault. Only my son and I have keys to the vault."

But no machine by itself could explain Eddie's success. Showmanship runs in his family. And other brother, Freddie Fields, runs a talent agency which handles such entertainment notables as Barbra Streisand, Peter Sellers, Rock Hudson, and Phil Silvers. And Eddie is an outstanding showman himself.

The balding, fastidiously dressed manufacturer moves in fashionable society and top business circles, knows most of his famous customers on a first-name basis.

They pay without wincing prices that range from $350 to $20,000 for a carpet. Fields keeps a stock of 100,000 spools of wool, several thousand basic designs, and prides himself that no two of the 10,000 rugs he creates each year are exactly alike.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH: A TWO-WAY STREET

President Johnson put it succinctly the other day:

"We must guard every man's right to speak, but we must defend every man's right to answer."

It is not a statement that will appeal to the dissenters at whom it was directed.

The first clause offends because it punctures the aura of martyrdom in which a few of the protesters against the war in Vietnam in particular and the government in general have wrapped themselves. It is difficult to be a martyr to a cause when authority defends your right to embrace that cause.

And since the President obviously includes himself and his administration in the second half of his sentence, this too will offend some of the dissenters.

To a small but loud-spoken minority of them, freedom of speech seems to mean the right to call the President of the United States a "buffoon," his secretary of defense a "racist" and his secretary of state a "murderer." It does not entail the right of these men to reply.

It is unfortunate that there have been some attempts, in and out of government, to equate dissent with disloyalty. In the face of the more extreme accusations that have been made against the nation and its leaders, it is a wonder there have not been more.

The President's statement should now make it clear that this is neither his way nor the traditional American way of doing things.

Even if the President is not believed, the fact remains that the war dissenters are and have been and will continue to be free to protest and demonstrate and express themselves all they want.

That they have so far failed to sway either the government or any great numbers of the people is more an indictment of their ideas and tactics than would be any misguided official or unofficial attempts to suppress them.

History will determine whether the dissenters are right or wrong about Vietnam. But one thing can be said with certainty today: The President was never more right when he said that freedom of speech will never harm America "as long as we remember it is a two - way street."

IN his weekly article in the Saturday Review, Granville Hicks used the word 'borborygmus.' Unfortunately, he spelled it with an extra 'y'. The mistake prompted 166 readers to write. Some were concerned about the spelling, but most of the readers wished to assure Hicks that they were familiar with the word, having encountered it in their reading of books by Aldous Huxley, Richard Haydn, and Graham Greene.

In the third Webster's International, borborygmus is defined as 'a rumbling sound made by the movement of gas in the intestine.' As unidentified rhymester put it this way:

I sat by the duchess at tea
It was just as I knew it would be
Her rumblings abdominal
Were simply abominable
And everyone blamed them on me.

Ogden Nash is also quoted:

Once my interal rumblings at parties
caused me to wish I could shrink to nothing, or at least to a pigmy,
But now I proudly inquire, Can everybody hear my borborygmi?

UNION OF STATES

In reforming our antiquated Electoral College system, sight must not be lost of the importance of maintaining the U.S. as a union of states. This can be done through adoption of a constitutional amendment placing the Congressional District Plan in effect. But adoption of the direct vote for President and Vice President would cause the Federal Government to come into the states to conduct each presidential election.

The Federal Government would establish rules for absentee voting. It would impose age limits for voting to apply to all states equally. In two states suffrage now begins at age 18; in one state at age 19, and in four states at age 20. Under the direct vote plan such differences between states would not be permitted. The central government also would come into the states to prescribe the required period of residence for suffrage.

The conduct of presidential elections within the states by the Federal Government would be the forerunner of its conducting the elections for U.S. senators, governors, congressmen, state legislators, county officials, mayors and school boards. In fact, election of the President by direct vote would be tantamount to electing senators and represenatives on a national basis rather than each state and district electing its own. The final result probably would be a nationwide election of these officials without regard for their place of residence.

Any delegate voting system is better than direct voting. Abolition of the Electorcal College would mean election of the President without the states participating as individual entities. That would be a severe blow to the Republic. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Locked in secret files AF 12-567 and NDA 7-258 at the food and drug administration is disturbing evidence that the government's doctors are less assured than its spokesmen about the harmless effects of artificial sweeteners.

The soaring consumption of diet drinks and low-calorie desserts, indeed, has deepened the doctors' concern. Yet the FDA still stands on its May 20, 1965, announcement that "there is no evidence that cyclamates (sugar substitutes), at present use levels, are a hazard to health."

At the same time this conclusion was announced out of the front office, the doctors were expressing grave doubts in the back rooms. The conclusion supposedly was based upon "new experimental data of the safety of cyclamates, including animal studies, tests involving ingestion by children and other data."

However, this column has been given a surreptitious peek at file AF 12-567, which shows that the tests were just beginning at the time of the May, 1965, announcement. The results were carefully segregated, incidentally, so the doctors could not review the complete data but only the details that concerned them.

The FDA, having previously certified artificial sweeteners as safe, could hardly retract its endorsement without leaving the nation's food-and-beverage distributors with a lot of low-calorie soda pop on their hands.

Throughout the controversy, no one has been more eager to protect the public from the alleged evils of sugar substitutes than the sugar industry, which stands to lose millions because of the diet craze.

As early as 1964, the sugar foundation commissioned the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation to investigate the low-calorie threat. Its doctors triumphantly discovered that artificial sweeteners can stunt the growth of rats. Laboratory rats, treated to sugar-free soft drinks, suffered a 12 to 50 per cent loss of growth.

PEOPLE VS. RATS

The experiment brought an outraged howl from such enterprises as Abbott Laboratories, which produces cyclamates, and Royal Crown Cola, which was first on the market with Diet Cola. They protested that people, at least biologically speaking, aren't rats.

As the two rival industries squared off, information on cyclamates began to spill over the scientific embankment into the lay lands below.

FDA's doctors, in particular, became increasingly concerned over the mass usage of artificial sweeteners. A drop or two in a cup of coffee, they agreed, was no health menace. But evidence began to show up of adverse effects on people whose intake was heavy.

H. P. Packscher of food and drug put through a long-distance call to Abbott Laboratories in Chicago on March 4, 1965. He reached Hartley Ericson, then dictated a memo for the secret file.

"I called Mr. Ericson," Packscher dictated, "to arrange a meeting to discuss the data on Sucaryl (a sweetener) which Abbott submitted last fall, providing our staff members an opportunity to ask questions which they feel are unanswered in the submissions."

The meeting was held on March 17. A "memorandum of conference," summarizing the discussion, declared:

"The toxicologists report that the cyclamates are poorly absorbed and pharmacologically inert. The absorbed portion is excreted unchanged in the urine, while that remaining in the intestine provokes diarrhea when given in large amounts... clinically, the organ system about which there is some concern is the liver."

Because of the uncertainties, the doctors sought more data. It was agreed at a subsequent meeting, April 13, 1965, to go ahead with several tests. The confidential report of the discussion indicated a lack of enthusiasm by the Abbott representatives.

"The discussion of present and proposed studies in children," said the report, "brought out several problems, including issues which we had regarded as needing resolution... The Abbott representatives cited difficulties associated with developing long-term studies in children. Appropriate groups are difficult to find. Orphanages, for example, do not have many young children, and the older ones come in and go out of these institutions. Also, there are legal problems involved..."

ABBOTT DRAGS HEELS

"Concerning the daily dose of cyclamates used in the study, the feeling was that higher doses would interfere with the children's eating habits. There will remains the question of what happens to children who drink 10 bottles of soft drink with artificial sweetener per day. At present there is no answer... the issue of cyclamate secretion in the milk of lactating mothers was raised, and the firm stated they are doing studies in animals."

Dr. G. R. Hazel of Abbott delivered a lecture on how insignificant a percentage of cyclamates goes into soft drinks.

"He stated further," said the report, "that probably less than 25 per cent of sugar is replaced by artificial sweeteners. Finally, Abbott feels the current proposals do not represent the end, but rather they are thinking in terms of three to five years to develop scientific and medical information on the cyclamates."

Without waiting for these studies, FDA issued its announcement that cyclamates were safe. But it didn't reckon with the sugar lobby, which brought pressure from Capitol Hill for a more thorough investigation.

FDA finally slipped a $46,000 contract to Albany Medical College under the guise of a pesticide study to look deeper into the health effects of artificial sweeteners. Dr. Frederick Coulston, who is directing the study, is not ready to announce the results.

But he would say this much: The use of artificial sweeteners should be restricted to persons who really need to cut out sugar. It is possible their use will get out of hand."

Note: Dr. Coulston claims FDA is now negotiating a new contract with him. But the FDA, in keeping with its secrecy over sweeteners, denied to this column that a new contract would be negotiated.

British Labor Government Moves Swiftly To Smash Black Power Racists Before Riots Can Hit Streets

LONDON -- The blunt words came quietly, but quite firmly, from one of Britain's highest leaders as we sat in one of the House of Commons' book-lined offices:

"The Labor government believes that all men are equal but no one is more equal than others simply because he is black, boisterous and inciting to riot. We won't have it."

Our conversation had centered around England's own Stokeley Carmichael -- a chap known variously as Michael X, Michael DeFreitas, and Michael Abdul Malik. He is the violence-peddling, 34-year-old, black-bearded, self-styled Muslim "leader," the power in the "Racial Adjustment Action Society."

Michael X, an ex-seaman born in Trinidad, speaking with relish and gore of having murdered a white man, stood in for Carmichael in an upland city when Laborite Home Secretary Roy Jenkins ordered the "American" out of Britain permanently for attempting to whip up riots.

It is, of course, consequential to note that Stokely Carmichael's associate here is a silk-shirted, chauffeur-driven, former racketeer who admits to having run brothels, strong-armed the poor, set Alsatian dogs on them, and slept better after his first murder. More on this in a moment to show the kind of associate Stokeley selects to speak for Britain's one million colored people (which, of course, he doesn't).

What is more immediate and vital to the Americans is the British Labor government's attitude toward those who would enflame the colored population of such "ghetto" cities as Manchester, Birmingham and Liverpool. Remember, this is a government of Socialists, left-wing and moderate, as well as of labor leaders. Every Laborite member of Parliament must be a member of a trade union.

So, no one can call it fascist or extremist.

But this Labor government sees no inconsistency in deporting aliens or indicting Britons who want to send hoodlums rioting and burning into the streets of their cities.

The Home Secretary, Roy Jenkins, is a veteran Laborite. His ministry oversees Scotland Yard. Its Special Branch does not surreptitiously dispatch detectives to stake out in secret meetings called by such as Michael X. The police simply stand there with their notebooks, getting the quotes, making certain of witnesses. Then they dispatch their reports to Mr. Jenkins.

He has the authority to deport the incendiaries such as Carmichael and Michael X. DeFreitas. It is not considered inconsistent with the Labor Party's democratic precepts to send "the chap packing." In the U.S., this would be almost impossible. The courts would drag the affair out for years while cities burned.

The Laborites, feeling no sense of psychological insecurity, do not listen idly to talk of the killing of "white monkeys" spouted by the so-called Muslims. They are developing the record on such as Michael DeFreitas when he shouts outside a university like the London School of Economics that "violence has been perpetrated against us and we shall have to use the same methods."

The Labor government did not long tolerate Michael X's advocacy of "killing" white men.

This sort of talk of blood-letting, now so prevalent in the U.S., is a violation of the Race Relations Act which cuts two ways. It will punish the colored as well as white violators. Under this law all are equal.

It took the Queen's Counsel, the Rt. Hon. Sir Dingle Foot, and the police authorities exactly three weeks to bring in an indictment against the Muslim's Michael X after he substituted for Stokely Carmichael at a public meeting in Reading. The British racist was charged with "intent to stir up hatred against a section of the public in Great Britain distinguished in color."

He was accused of using words likely to stir up hatred against that section "on the grounds of color."

The gaily bedecked, purple-shirted, gold-spangled Muslim laughed it off -- but he faces a sentence of two years in prison and a $2,800 fine. Not severe, but enough to teach him a lesson.

Nor are this government and its various commissions hesitant to launch "inquiries" before riots stir up bloody storms. One conference here called by the National Committee for Commonwealth Immigrants actually heard testimony from American labor officials. This government is not frightened of listening to anyone who can help, regardless of their origin.

Since riots and civil strife are everybody's concern, the Confederation of British Industries dispatched a prestigious delegation of its top leaders to a racial integration conference with an equally noted labor group at the Trades Union Congress headquarters last June. Thus the British counterparts of the U. S. National Assn. of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce discussed the common problem with the counterpart of the AFL-CIO.

But the Laborite Government is not waiting for commission or conference reports which will take eight to ten months. Nor is it piling up archives on which will rest the dust of royal tradition.

If a man has a racket record, the government is not bullied by his militant racial outcries. Thus in the case of Stokely Carmichael's counterpart here, the attorney general has Michael X's record. They know on what streets he ran his houses of prostitution. They know of his strong-arm work for a notorious slumlord called "Rachman" for whom Mike DeFreitas collected exhorbitant rents or frightened off poor families so their empty apartments could be leased at rentals beyond the rent-freeze limits. DeFreitas would smash gas meters, slash the electric power supply, sic dogs on the tenants of the poor, virtually all of them colored people.

He will not escape this record of violence and exploitation of his own people. He will not be permitted to unleash riots. The people here, white and black, know it.

Americans should know it too. They should know that this DeFreitas says he has been to Moscow and Cuba. They should know what manner of man is chosen by the Stokely Carmichaels. They should know that there is a government which does not believe it is indecent to crack down on the social racketeers before the hoodlums destroy society bit by bit.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Hanna

Tommye Elaine Blackwelder Bride of Paul S. Hanna

Miss Tommye Elaine Blackwelder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Blackwelder, became the bride of Paul S. Hanna, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hanna of Portageville, Aug. 5 at 4 p.m. in the Northside Church of Christ.

The former Miss Blackwelder's headpiece was a satin cabbage rose securing a fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow daisies. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace.

Bridesmaids were Miss Deborah Hanna, sister of the groom, and Miss Laurel Bauschke of Corinth, Miss., a former roommate of the bride. They wore white floor-length gowns of bonded lace that were fashioned with A-line skirts, empire waistlines, scoop necklines and bell-shaped sleeves.

Ward Alan Hanna served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Dennis Moody of Blytheville, Ark., and Don Rone, Jr., of Portageville.

Ushers were Raymond and Johnnie Blackwelder, both brothers of the bride.

A reception was held at the church. The bride's table was covered with a white lace tablecloth and centered with a three tiered cake topped with a miniature bridal couple. A crystal punch bowl completed the table appointments. Serving the guests were Mrs. Marian Blackwelder of Memphis and Mrs. Charlene Blackwelder.

Mayor's Daughter Closes Show

NEW YORK (AP) - Kathy Lindsay is a tall, blonde teenager whose interests include show business and volunteer work and who also happens to be the daughter of New York's mayor.

This summer she managed to combine those specific interests by spending six weeks of her vacation staging puppet shows for children in slum areas.

Tuesday she rang down the curtain on her summer job with the Carver House Puppeteers in Spanish Harlem. The 25 youngsters in the troupe responded by presenting her a puppet named Peter.

Kathy, 16, eldest of the four Lindsay children, has been living in Gracie Mansion with her father while the rest of the family stayed in a house at Laurel Hollow, Long Island.

Each day the mayor's daughter commuted to work by bus and subway. "It's really been fun," she said. "I wasn't afraid to work here. There were no disturbances or tensions.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two shut outs reduced the Cardinals lead in the National League Tuesday night to 10 games. The Mets blanked St. Louis, 2-0, on Cal Koonce's five hitter and second place Cincinnati broke an eight game Philadelphia win streak, 1-0.

Koonce got all the runs he needed on Ron Swoboda's fifth inning solo homer and Jerry Grote's run scoring single in the sixth.

Phil Gagliano and Hughes each had two hits and Roger Maris got the other Cardinal safety.

The Mets will start Bill Friselle and the Cards are expected to call on Larry Jaster tonight.

Clete Boyer wasn't having one of his better nights. But with the kind of season Atlanta's veteran third baseman is having, even his errors turn out well.

Boyer made one of his rare errors in the eighth inning Tuesday night as Pittsburgh took a 3-2 lead against the Braves. Then in the bottom half of the inning, with Atlanta going to their bench for pinch hitters, Boyer climaxed a rally with his fifth career grand slam home run.

That gave the Braves a 7-3 victory and made a hero out of the potential goat. "I was looking for redemption instead of glory," said Boyer. He got it with his 23rd homer.

Boyer's two-base throwing error set up Bill Mazeroski's run-scoring single in the top of the eighth, snapping a 2-2 tie.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, San Francisco pounded Los Angeles 11-1 and Houston topped Chicago 5-3.

Boyer's grand slam was his second this season for the Braves. He has 81 runs batted in, only eight less than Aaron, and 15 more than Torre, the Braves' top sluggers.

The Pirates argued long and loud on the call at home plate when Torre scored on Tito Francona's hit with the tying run. Al Luplow, Andre Rodgers and Manager Danny Murtaugh were all thrown out.

Cincinnati used three pitchers --Gary Nolan, Billy McCool and Ted Abernathy -- to shut out the Phillies on seven hits. The defeat ended an eight-game Philadelphia winning streak.

Vada Pinson doubled in the seventh inning for the second hit off Jim Bunning and then came around on an infield out and Lee May's sacrifice fly for the only run of the game.

Hal Lanier drove in five runs for the Giants with a triple, two singles and a grounder against the Dodgers as Joe Gibbon breezed on a three-hitter.

Willie Mays, who had scored from second on a wild pitch Monday, raced home from first on a single and whacked his 17th homer as the Giants ended rookie Bill Singer's seven-game winning streak.

Jim Wynn capped a five-run eighth inning rally with his 31st home run -- a three-run shot that gave Houston its victory over Chicago.

Joe Niekro had the Astros shut out on five hits going into the eighth but singles by Ron Brand, Julio Gotay, Joe Morgan and Doug Rader produced two runs before Wynn connected.

In the American League, Boston's Red Sox were getting drowsy trying to hit Jim Bouton. Then Darrell Brandon hit Bouton without trying . . . and Horace Clarke sent everybody home to bed.

As a result, Bouton's marathon mark is intact and the Red Sox are tossing in their sleep.

Clarke's run-scoring single in the 20th inning gave the New York Yankees a 4-3 victory over Boston Tuesday night after the Red Sox had seized the American League lead by winning the doubleheader opener 2 - 1.

The split left the Sox a scant half game ahead of both the Minnesota Twins, who lost to Baltimore 4-3, and Detroit Tigers, who swept a twin bill at California 4-2 and 2-1.

Clarke's one-out hit in the 20th knocked in John Kennedy, who had singled and moved into scoring position when Boston reliever Brandon hit Yankee reliever Bouton with a pitch.

Bouton, recalled from the minors last week, pitched five innings of three-hit ball to earn his first victory of the season. Five years ago, Bouton was the winner in a seven-hour, 22-inning marathon at Detroit.

In Tuesday night's other AL action the Washington Senators beat Chicago 3-0, dropping the White Sox 2 1/2 games off the pace, and Cleveland edged Kansas City 9-8 in 10 innings.

Steve Whitaker's home run in the 11th after the Red Sox had grabbed a 3-2 lead in the top of the inning, and a spectacular throw by center fielder Bill Robinson kept the Yankees alive in the extra-inning struggle.

Robinson grabbed Reggie Smith's one-out drive in the 17th and doubled Mike Andrews at the plate with an on-the-fly strike. Boston outfielders Carl Yastrzemski and Smith had choked off a New York threat two innings earlier with successive diving catches.

The Red Sox took the first game behind right-hander Jim Lonborg, who fired a three-hitter for his 18th victory and drove in the deciding run with a seventh-inning single off loser Mel Stottlemyre. Lonborg also fanned 11 Yankees to take the league lead with 195 strikeouts.

Brooks Robinson's three-run double with two out in the sixth -- the first hit of Minnesota's Dave Boswell -- triggered Baltimore past the Twins. Robinson cleared the bases after three walks got Boswell in trouble.

The Orioles added a run in the eighth on a bases-loaded walk by reliever Ron Kline, then weathered a two-run Minnesota rally in the ninth.

Denny McLain fired a three-hitter in the first game and rookies John Hiller and Fred Lasher checked the Angels on eight hits in the nightcap as the surging Tigers ran their current string to 10 victories in 13 starts.

Cardinals In Final Week of Preparation For Season

CHICAGO, Ill. -- This is the final week of training camp for ths Football Cardinals, who wind it up Friday night against the Chicago Bears, then head for St. Louis over the Labor Day weekend.

The Big Red and the Bears tangle at 8 p.m. (St. Louis time) Friday at mammoth Soldier Field in the annual Armed Forces Benefit game. The game will be televised live back to St. Louis over KMOX-TV, with Jack Drees and Mal Hammack doing the announcing. Radio broadcast, with Jay Randolph and Ray Geracy at the microphones, will originate over KMOX Radio for the Big Red network, and will be carried in St. Louis over KSD Radio.

A year ago, the Bears snapped a three-year Cardinal winning streak in this benefit game with a 22-20 victory, featuring five field goals by Roger Leclerc, who again will do the Bears' kicking.

Both clubs are coming back from defeats, with the Cardinals having bowed to Pittsburgh, 24-13, in Nashville on Saturday, and the Bears having been soundly beaten by the Kansas City Chiefs, 66-24, last Wednesday in Kansas City.

Jack Concannon, who came to the Bears from the Philadelphia Eagles in a spring trade, is scheduled to be the starting quarterback for Chicago. The Big Red will lead with Jim Hart who has completed 41 of 89 passes for 576 yards since being elevated to the starting role.

The Big Red used various combinations of players against the Steelers, with Roy Shivers the leading ground gainer. He picked up 32 yards in only four carries. John Roland, who gained 24 yards in six tries, is the leading Cardinal rusher after three pre-season games with 69 yards in 21 carries. Shivers is second with 54 yards in 13 tries.

Among the receivers, only two catches separate the top quartet. Bobby Joe Conrad tops the team with 10 catches. Billy Gambrell is second with nine, and Dave Williams and Jackie Smith share third with eight apiece. Smith paced the receivers against the Steelers with six for 99 yards, and Williams tops the group in yardage with 167, an average of 20.9 yards per catch.

No serious injuries were reported after the Saturday game, and everyone should be in playing shape to meet the Bears. It will be the first of two clashes this year, with the clubs also scheduled to tangle at Wrigley Field on November 19.

After the game, the Big Red will close its Lake Forest College camp and will gather in St. Louis to begin workouts on Labor Day. The Cardinals will have one more pre-season game at home, meeting the Lions on Friday, September 8, before opening the regular season at home on Sunday, September 17, against the New York Giants.

Tickets for the September 8 game, which is played for the benefit of the St. Louis Symphony Society, are on sale at the Cardinal ticket office, 200 Stadium Plaza. Tickets for all regular season games also are on sale there, with the office open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Fred Ritter started off the Advance scoring with a first inning solo home run.

Morley's Larry Hail gave up six hits and was the losing pitcher.

Milk Clause Suspended

CHICAGO (AP) — The Department of Agriculture has announced suspension during September, October and November of the supply-demand adjustment for Class I fluid milk prices set by the St. Louis federal milk marketing order.

The order covers parts of Illinois, Missouri and Kentucky.

Officials of the federal agency's consumer and marketing service said the action continues for three more months the earlier suspension in effect from June through August 1967.

The suspension also will apply in the Ozarks, Southern Illinois and Paducah federal order markets, which use the St. Louis supply and demand adjustment, the agency said.

The previous suspension of adjustment was requested by a majority of dairy farmers in Ozarks, St. Louis and Southern Illinois markets, officials said, pending steps to amend it based on testimony at public hearings held in February and March.

Plane Designer Dies

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (AP) — William Hawley Bowlus, 72, who designed and built Charles Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis, died Sunday.

MISSOURI'S NATIONAL GUARD RIFLE TEAM came to Port Clinton, Ohio, to face the stiffest small arms competition in the 1967 national rifle matches. Members of the squad include, front, from left, Cpt. Dennis R. Quertermous, Bertrand; Maj. Dale L. Strannigan, Lee's Summit; Ltc. Rochester C. Colgan and Maj. James D. Clardy, both of Jefferson City; PSgt Paul E. Mahar, Marston; and (back) WO Billy R. Cearley, Mexico; Sgt Gerald S. McConnell, Kansas City; SSgt John W. Kearbey, Poplar Bluff; Sp-5 Garry D. Murphy, Union; Sgt David M. Williams, Charleston; Sp-4 Earl R. Religion Attracting Students

BOSTON (AP) - Religious interest is mounting on American college campuses, students from several of them said today. But they added that it's not the conventional type of religion.

"Some people may say God is dead, but students are proving He's not dead," said Daniel S. Jensen of Fresno, Calif., State College.

"Today's students are more concerned about religion, not less."

However, it's an exploratory, open-ended faith, minus many traditional forms and definitions, according to a sampling of youth at an international conference of Christian Science Youth.

Students "are looking for real answers," said Jeannie Kleinhammer of the University of Kansas. Daniel Hill, a West Pointer added: "A real spiritual revolution is going on."

A score of others from across the nation made similar comments. They are among about 8,000 college students at the three-day conference which opened Thursday.

Several observed that students today show a rebellious streak, but that the rebellion is at fixed patterns of religion, not at the basis of it.

In a keynote address, Erwin D. Canham, editor in chief of the Christian Science Monitor, touched on the same point, saying:

"One of the few good things about the hipsters is their rejection of a materialistically orientated society. Also, I wish to endorse both love and flowers."

But he added that hippies distort attitudes into a useless escapism.

By RUTH DILLENDER

BERNIE - Special investigator for the Missouri attorney general's office in 17 counties is Mrs. Ruch Winchester. She held this job seven years.

Mrs. Winchester's husband, John F. Winchester, is retired. He is former Stoddard county representative. Both Mr. and Mrs. Winchester have lived in and around Bernie most of their lives.

Mrs. Winchester is doing an oil painting of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes. She said she hasn't decided what she will do with it when she finishes.

The Winchesters have German shepherd, Dalmatian and mixed breed dogs.

The couple attends First Christian church where Mrs. Winchester sings in the choir and belongs to the Dorcas circle.

She is a member of the Women's Democratic clubs of Stoddard county and Missouri. She is a former member of the state board of Women's Democratic clubs.

Mrs. Winchester likes to cook and collects antique dishes. Another hobby is refinishing furniture.

Upright Family Fights Depression

THE LEAST ONE. By Borden Deal. Doubleday. $5.95.

BORDEN DEAL

Lee has lost his mortgaged farm and his mules, and cannot find work. But under a New Deal aid program he gets a pair of mules without having to make a down payment, and then a landowner accepts him in a pooled-work arrangement on his farm – a sort of communal arrangement of tenant sharecroppers.

The place is called – believe it or not – Bugscuffle Bottoms. The Swords are proud people despite their poverty – particularly Mrs. Sword – and it is a bitter blow to have to give up their independence.

But ingenuity, hard work and moral integrity help them pull through a series of misfortunes and accidents that would have ruined a less hardy family.

The hero and narrator of the book is "Boy." (His father had insisted that his sons choose their own names. John chose his when he was 10, but "Boy" stubbornly refused to. Significantly, there comes a time when he is no longer a boy, and makes the choice.)

It is a well-told tale of a youngster's life – his delight in his books and his dog, his fears, hates, humiliations and hopes. It is an adventure story, and it is a compassionate account of a brave family struggling against fate. It carries a wholesome, old-fashioned dedication to what is right.

Coffee Corner
by Cherie

Dear readers - lady readers that is - Charles just walked in and announced that the entertainment committee for the 101st Missouri Press Association meeting had been looking and looking and had finally found the perfect beautiful, blond, "go-go" girl for the big banquet, ---- "wasn't I excited?" "So who cares about watching a crummy "go-go" girl?" I ask. "Who cares, well just everybody, that's who!" Yeah, I thought everybody that will be there with trousers on that is. "O. K.", I said, "so you've got a "go-go" girl for the gents entertainment--- now, what will there be for the women?" Pure astonishment crosses his face --- "What else but a "go-go" girl could anyone want to see?" Well Buster, I've got a news flash for you --- I could care less about this blond bombshell and I'm sure every wife there feels just the same way. So, I thought I would sit right down and write the President's wife, Virginia Alice, to see if we couldn't come up with some idea, (I already had one sort of running around up there in all that empty space) for the ladies evening enjoyment. Then I realized that this problem was not a local, but a world-wide problem among females, and one of just as much importance as Eisenhower's sick stomach or the Kennedy's rapid birthrate, and yet we never get any news coverage. So, I hope Virginia won't mind if I make my letter to her public, for the benefit of all those other ladies like ourselves who are stuck evening after evening staring at loosely hung and even more loosely swung rhinestones and tassels. Dear Virginia,

Charles has just told me how he and Oliver and Bill planned the Missouri press meeting and as long as this is a year of protesting stupid issues, I suggest we join ranks with the "hippies," (after all with us the term hippies at least now comes to have a relevant meaning), and protest!

I mean it is annoying to me just how much of a man's world it really is. For instance, Charles just finished walking in the door and plopping down all sorts of huge, three - day old greasy pots and pans for me to wash and return to various places. These were what was left of the Lions Club chicken fry of the other evening, and you know what? I didn't even get a chicken leg offered me, but look who's cleaning up the dirty dishes --- isn't that typical?? Men -- I can remember not so long ago in New Orleans, when we went out for the evening. Charles very graciously asked me what I wanted to do, (he always asks, just never listens), and I informed him I would just love to go and see the women impersonators at the Black Cat Club. "What?", he and the taxi driver screamed, "not a nice little lady like you?" "So," I said, "and what's wrong with that-- they don't do anything but sing, dance, and wait on tables, and it's a dern cinch they're not going to molest me." "Oh, no," they both chorused, "you wouldn't enjoy that." Well, I never got the chance to find out, and you know where we ended up? In a dive, watching Candy Bar swing, well swing everything, and me being given lewd stares by other patrons, (Charles didn't notice as he was too busy himself giving lewd stares to Candy Bar). I could have curled up and gone to sleep (if I'd dared), for all the entertainment this was for me, but Charles was so entertained he plumb forget my package of New Orleans souvenirs and left them under the table and they never were recovered!!

So Virginia, are we going to stand still and let this happen to us again and again. I for one am going to stand up and holler. I don't mind if the boys want their "go-go" girl, in fact, I think its great --- but, I want some "go - go" boys for us! Don't you think about six well-dressed and polite gigolos could manage to get around to all of us gals at least once for a dance? They could be hired to whirl us around the floor admire our new frocks, and tell us how lovely we look, (the men will be too busy with their eyes full of tassels to notice any new chiffons we might have on), and then thank us for the dance and go on to the next lovely lady. I mean it would do wonders for my morale to be asked to dance, instead of having to first kick a certain someone on the shin and glare at him to even manage to get that one duty foxtrot in, and to be thanked afterwards, well, that would just be supreme ecstasy. Anyway, I am sure we ladies could put up with the gents ladies much easier, if we ladies had a few gents of our own. Please ask Oliver, to check the budget and if there is not quite enough for project gigolo, he can take up a collection from each girl at the meeting.

Looking forward to seeing you and your family, and to dancing up a storm.

Longer Bombing Pause Hinted

SAIGON (AP) -- Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieur, the front-running military candidate for president in Sunday's elections, said today that if elected he may try to halt the bombing of North Vietnam for more than the one week he has been proposing.

A longer pause would depend on a favorable response from Hanoi and on agreement from the United States, Thieu stressed in a talk with newsmen after a campaign speech to more than 10,000 Vietnamese troops.

Artillery roaring in the background and jets from nearby Tan Son Nhut airbase sometimes drowned out Thieu and civilian candidates as they spoke to the soldiers in the biggest political rally so far.

Thieu told the troops: "We are ready to negotiate. The problem is whether North Vietnam will accept. It is up to them."

He told newsmen later that if elected, "I will talk to North Vietnam first. If I get a favorable response, then I will talk to the Americans and may ask for more than one week."

Observers in Saigon, however, think it unlikely that the United States would go along with even a one-week pause in air strikes unless Hanoi indicated it would reciprocate.

Thieu and his vice presidential running mate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, appear certain to carry the rural areas where 80 per cent of South Vietnam's 5.85 million voters live and to win the election, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Ann Landers

Great Men Identify Themselves

Dear Ann Landers: I reply to the Sacramento reader who described himself as a "busy executive" and resented being asked his name or the nature of his business by "self-important" secretaries.

As a secretary who has worked in both private industry and government I can tell you that the bigger the man, the more humble and courteous he is, on the phone as well as in person. I served as secretary to the late Honorable Adlai E. Stevenson when he was in Washington on United Nations business. Mr. Stevenson never failed to identify himself when he placed a call personally.

President Kennedy did the same. Many an astonished secretary nearly dropped the phone when she heard that famous voice say, "This is Jack Kennedy. Is Mr. Doe in?"

So please tell that joker out in California that if two of the greatest men of our century can identify themselves when they want to speak to someone, he can, too. --FLORIDA.

Dear Florida: Amen, Sister, Amen.

Dear Ann Landers: Usually your advice is sound and solid, but I was badly let down when you told the man who seduced a young, innocent girl that he had no reason to feel guilty. Your words were: "After all, you didn't chloroform her. It's up to the young lady to call the signals and hold that line."

I don't buy your theory that if a guy doesn't use chloroform he needn't have any twinges of conscience. Some girls at 15 are very mature. They know all the answers. Others at 15 are children. They may appear worldly-wise and talk a good game, but they don't have any real information. These girls are pathetically vulnerable and they often wind up in trouble.

My father was a wise and wonderful man. He taught his sons that honorable men don't deceive girls to obtain sex satisfaction and that virgins were strictly off limits. -- E.U.H. OF DANVILLE

Dear E.U.H.: The world could use more fathers like the one you had. But my advice still stands. I, too, feel sorry for the girls who get conned, but one of my chief missions is to wake up these sleeping beauties. The best approach is to let them know they must watch out for themselves. Most boys didn't have fathers like yours. They will take anything that's offered plus whatever they can talk a girl out of.

Dear Ann: Recently I read where a high school girl wanted to know if she should take a picture of her friend in the casket and give it to the bereaved parents. You were somewhat noncommittal. I wish you had told her NO.

My mother died when I was 12. An aunt took pictures of her in the casket -- two large photographs on slick paper and several smaller snapshots. Her face looked painted, like a doll's, and the expression on her mouth was cruel -- one I had never seen.

That was 46 years ago, Ann, and those pictures still haunt me. I have never forgotten how Mother looked when she was alive, her beautiful, sparkly blue eyes and her warm smile, but the picture in the casket always comes first. After a shudder or two it fades away, but it's always first. It's a terrible mistake to take a picture of a person after death. Please tell your readers not to do it. -- A DEVOTED READER

Dear Reader: I agree. From now on when asked I will no longer be noncommittal. I shall remember your letter and say "no."

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Wm. Pate, who is rebuilding the home of Celestine Finley, reports that at the top of a joist and studding a swarm of bees had settled and started housekeeping. They had built five layers of comb 9 1/2 inches across and 17 inches long, which they had partly filled with honey. The bees were architects and evidently knew their business as the comb was built at an angle of 45 degrees to the studding in order to brace the comb. It was necessary to kill the bees with smoke before proceeding with the work.

Report From Washington
Stuart Symington

VETERANS BENEFITS -- Omnibus bills which would increase benefits under the existing G. I. Bill and provide wartime benefits to veterans who have served during the Vietnam Era -- since Aug. 5, 1964-- have been cleared by the House and Senate for the President's signature.

For the first time Cold War and Vietnam veterans will be eligible for benefits for on-the-job, on-the-farm and in-flight training.

In addition the bill increases payments from $100 to $130 for single veterans whose service began after Jan. 31, 1955. Veterans with one dependent will receive an increase from $125 to $155, and veterans with two dependents will receive an increase from $150 to $175. Veterans who have not completed high school will now be able to receive educational allowances in preparation for advanced education.

Another provision of the bill increases the maximum VA home loan from $17,500 to $25,000 in areas where the Veterans Administration determines that cost levels require these increased loans.

A cost-of-living increase is provided for veterans and dependents under a current pension program who have suffered non-service connected disabilities.

ACCIDENT SPOTTING --The Federal government is cooperating with our State in a $12 million "spot improvement" safety program to eliminate high-accident locations from Missouri's highway system.

Since March 1964, Missouri has programmed 55 accident location improvement projects. The program includes widening bridges, traffic lanes and shoulders; realigning curves and slopes for better sight distances; reconstruction of intersections, and improvement of traffic signal systems.

CIGARETTES--The Consumer Subcommittee of the Senate Commerce Committee held hearings last week to review the progress being made toward the development and marketing of a less hazardous cigarette.

The U.S. Public Health Service has recently released the 1967 Surgeon General's report on "The Health Consequences of Smoking." Since 1964, more than 2,000 additional research studies have confirmed that "Cigarette smoking is a health hazard of sufficient importance in the United States to warrant appropriate remedial action." Copies of this report can be obtained from my office upon request.

If You Were the Judge

Change of Life Valid Shoplifting Excuse

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Minnie was a very reputable real estate broker. Entering a supermarket she picked up three pounds of chopped beef and stuffed it into her purse. The result? She was charged with larceny and proceedings were started to revoke her broker's license because of the dastardly deed.

"We caught her dead to rights," the judge was told. "She tried to walk out of the supermarket with a pocketbook full of unpaid for chopped meat."

"I'm sorry," was Minnie's answer, "but I didn't know what I was doing. I've been undergoing change of life and I've been under so much stress and strain that I just don't know whether I'm coming or going."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Minnie of trying to abscond with the chopped meat and would you revoke her brokerage license for doing it?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that when a woman goes through a change of life and competent medical evidence supports the fact that the stress and strain and anxiety of it has caused her to become mentally disabled, so as to prevent her from being able to form a rational intent to commit larceny, she cannot be held accountable for walking out of a supermarket with a pocketbook full of unpaid for chopped meat.

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

There is a risk involved when you enter into a contract with an infant. He can cancel the contract, as example for the sale and purchase of a car, if he decides to do so. The rule is otherwise, however, if he buys "necessities" such as food, clothing, shelter. He is then bound by his agreement. (For personal guidance, see your local attorney.)

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I would like to convey my thanks to all participating in the (Missourians Youth Clean Up Campaign), especially the teenagers who worked so whole heartedly, and the young adults that has made this working force a big reality. I want to thank the newly formed organization, "Recovery Inc.," for their splendid help. Thanks to the city for their equipment. Our youth became so enthused about the work they were doing and a chance to have a responsible position in doing this job, they wanted a plan where as they wouldn't have to desperse themselves for lunch. So with no real hope at all of achieving much we picked the retail grocers for a plan of feeding the young working crew the response to the idea of helping those who help themselves were overwhelming. Our first call was Lindsey's M and H, and he consented to donate the necessary meats for snacks. That gave us confidence to call others. We wish to thank you Larry for starting our ball to rolling. After the call to Lindsey's M and H we continued to call all other grocers: Home owned, large and small. They all responded very nicely. And in behalf of the Missourian's men club I wish to give my personal thanks to the merchants that donated paint, to the grocers that donated snacks, and last but not least, those who cooperated with us in our clean up campaign; land owners, home owners, renters, and the proud parents of the working youth. Aren't you proud and glad to know that our youth want responsibility too. You should be! They have proven themselves, now lets keep our youth's chins up.

To the Editor
DAILY SIKESTON STANDARD

In the midst of the whistling bombs on Vietnam, the roars of the mobs in Detroit, the screams of the hate-mongers and war-mongers, there is a deadly silence. It is a silence felt and heard by the entire world. American Patriots are mute. This voicelessness must cease. Communism and atheism must be stopped. Freedomists must shout to the world love of freedom and justice. Good examples could be followed of those who have the courage and energy to speak out in behalf of our Republic; for from those few will come new Laws, new Freedoms, new Faith. "Hate" should be left to the opposition who like to use it while accusing others of hate-mongering. Once again silence will be heard; the silence of the fallen opponents of freedom.

Constructively,

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

My speech and my message were not in plausible words of wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and power, that your faith might not rest in the wisdom of men but in the power of God. (I Corinthians 2:4-5, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear God, we live in an age which worships the power in scientific discovery and wisdom. Help us to open our hearts and lives to the inspiration of the Holy Spirit and come to know Thee better through faith in Thy Son, in whose name we offer this prayer. Amen.

Brush Fire Under Control

LOS ANGELES (AP)— A potentially disastrous brush fire in the Granada Hills area of many expensive homes was controlled today after more than five hours of furious fire-fighting efforts.

Twelve fire department units remained on patrol duty to prevent possible new flareups in the San Fernando Valley community. There had been 350 men and 40 pieces of equipment used at one time.

The fire department said it had reports of six houses destroyed or damaged but a final count was yet to be completed.

Battalion Chief Patrick Ferguson at one time estimated the burned acreage at 1,200 but after daylight the department said the scorched area actually was confined to about 500 acres.

The only injury reported was one unidentified fireman who suffered an eye injury.

There are many houses in the $40,000 to $70,000 range in the area bordering Knollwood Country Club in the foothills of the San Gabriel Mountains.

Many persons packed belongings into cars and fled the scene temporarily although the fire department did not officially order evacuation.

Flames and smoke could be seen in downtown Los Angeles, 25 miles southeast of the fire scene. The fire attracted so many curious spectators that at times emergency units were impeded by traffic jams, police reported.

the St. Louis divisional office.

The divisional office co-ordinates other services offered by the Salvation Army including referrals and operation of a home for unwed mothers, and harbor light operations for rehabilitation of drunkards.

Some of the services which may be used by any community with a service unit include: Clothing and shoes for children, dental care, eye examinations, free fresh air camps for the needy, hearing test, wheelchairs for community use, mobile canteen service, temporary aid to fire victims.

Most of the referral are made through county and state welfare offices who cannot help in particular situations because of their limitations by law, Sharp said.

The Salvation Army is a religion. Its officers are ordained Salvationists educated in one of their four training schools in the United States.

The Army's origins sprung from the London slums in the 1860's where the first programs established were the one-cent soup kitchens. Later, clothing was collected from churches for the poor and men's social programs were set up. Each function provided by the Army grew from a need, Sharp said.

He spoke on the Army's work and his personal experiences at the Kiwanis Club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce meetings Tuesday night.

Charles Matthews, chairman of the United Fund, served as Sharp's host Tuesday.

Sharp is the first of eight representatives of the United Fund agencies to appear here. Next Wednesday, William M. Gourlay, Memphis, regional director of the U.S.O., will speak to the Sikeston Lions Club.

Other agencies in the fund who will have representatives speak later include, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Civil Air Patrol, Sikeston Welfare Office, American Red Cross, and the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

The goal of the drive this year is $56,634. Two phases of the drive have already started: Payroll deductions of employees, and out-of-town business solicitation.

The major kickoff of the local business solicitation will be held at 2 p.m. Sept. 8 at an undesignated point, Matthews said.

A house-to-house canvass will be conducted later.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 30, the 242nd day of 1967. There are 123 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1645, a peace treaty was made by the Dutch and Indians at New Amsterdam.

On this date:

In 30 B.C. Cleopatra killed herself by letting an asp bite her.

In 1780, Benedict Arnold sent a message to the British that he would surrender the American fort at West Point.

In 1924, the Dawes plan was signed in London, arranging the payment of Germany's World War I reparations.

In 1945, Gen. Douglas MacArthur arrived in Japan at the end of World War II and set up headquarters in Yokohama.

Also in 1945, an international committee indicted 24 top German leaders as major war criminals.

Ten years ago — U.S. officials said it was known that the Soviet Union had tested several intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Five years ago — President John F. Kennedy designated W. Willard Wirtz as secretary of labor.

One year ago — French President Charles de Gaulle arrived in Cambodia and was praised for his opposition to the Vietnam war.

It can at least be said for our civilization, as against the Red Chinese, that what we usually write on walls is who's in love with whom.

Letters to the Editor

A MESSAGE TO UNION WORKERS

These thoughts are addressed to our millions of working men and women who, as a whole, represent one of our finest segments of American citizens.

The vast majority would give their lives to protect America, their homes and loved ones in any war threatening our freedoms. Here are millions of our folks who together can increase their effectiveness a thousandfold in a comparatively short time towards preservation of our freedoms and insure the enjoyment of same by our children and grandchildren.

History is jammed with names of men, groups of men, parties and coalitions, all imbued with unholy ambition to control as many people as possible and enjoy therefrom the power, prestige and material wealth wrung from the toil, sweat, tears, suffering and frustration of the many. History is repeating itself in America, and we have allowed control over us to reach an all-time high.

Why, oh why, must men and women, especially in our enlightened America, become so satisfied with our luxurious living that we forget to think, to act for ourselves and, by pure forfeiture to unscrupulous and power - hungry pied pipers, gradually lose our freedoms?

Our country is still supposed to be a government "of the people, by the people and for the people." In proportion to our (the people's) apathy, laziness and do-nothing attitudes to keep our freedoms, we are gradually losing our control to bureaucratic minorities.

Now, why do I elaborate so much about these thoughts in a chapter on union workers? It is because the time is long past due for union members to draft their own Declaration of Independence, Constitution, and Bill of Rights. Until they do, they will never enjoy unions of the members, by the members and for the members. It will be a job for the big majority of union workers and all of them will have to change from lethargic apathy and, in some areas, fear, to militant fighters. For too long union members have allowed the mushrooming of bureaucratic and, in many instances, mob control to gain a stronger and stronger stranglehold over their lives and those of their families.

Of course we know that there are good unions, staffed by patriotic, honest, efficient men, working tirelessly for the members of their unions. The big reward these men enjoy is the good they can do for others. They are not interested in Napoleonic power or materialistic gains at the expense of their union members. They know too that the labor unions are just one segment of our society, and that cooperative meshing with other segments secures more benefits, present and future, for their member and America as a whole.

However, we can never forget that there are always unscrupulous, ambitious men scheming and plannting to control the masses.

Our Founding Fathers knew this only too well. That is why they drafted our Constitution with checks and restructions that would, to the maximum, protect us from future ambitious tyrants.

There never was a better time or climate to incorporate into the laws of our land a Constitution for Union Members. It is just as necessary, as were our Anti Trust Laws of years ago, to curb and hold down excesses of power in the employer segment of our society.

Let us pattern our Union Members' Declaration of Independence from that of our United States.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE
OF ALL UNION MEMBERS IN OUR UNITED STATES

When in the course of time it becomes necessary for a large segment of a free people to throw off the increasing bonds of increasing, unscrupulous, controlling minorities; to fully democratize our segment of society and insure future free democracy; to bring back a decent respect for the other segments of the society of our great America, with renewed understanding that each and every segment of our society is dependent upon each other, and maximum, sensible cooperation fit for all; to eliminate all present or future fear and insure the rebirth of our own self-respect and freedoms, we hereby declare the causes that impel us to action.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, the right to honest work wherever, whenever and for whom they please, without any restrictions or compulsory demands or dictates of any kind or nature, and the pursuit of happiness free from coercions and fears of withheld work, bodily harm to self and loved loved ones, and destruction of homes or other property.

That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.

That unions in our America have come into being and grown like Topsy, without constitutional law laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them (union members) shall seem most likely to effect their freedom, safety and happiness.

All experience hath shewn that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty to throw off such yoke and to provide new guards for their future security.

We therefore, the union members of each and every one of our fifty states, do hereby petition to all United States senators and representatives of both parties for our respective states and signed hereby by the big majority of our union members, do request that federal laws be drawn for our first approval, and after so approved by the majority of us, be processed into the law of our land for our protection and the best interests of all segments of our society, which interwoven together will insure our future freedoms:

1. Provide for the election of all union officers by free and secret ballots. Provide for dues assessments and expenditures only by free and secret ballots.

2. Provide for effective recall and ouster proceedings for officers who misuse their powers.

3. Provide for fiduciary restrints upon union pensions and any and all other union funds as exacting as those set upon bankers and any other managers of other peoples' money, with insurance bonds to cover any defalcations.

4. Provide for annual audits and full public knowledge of all receipts and expenditures. We (the union members) are a large segment of the public and never-more want to be shocked or ashamed of what is done with our savings and money in any funds.

5. Provide heavy penalties against anyone or more who are convicted of threatening, coercing or harming the person or any relative of any union member or damaging in any way any of his personal or real property.

6. Realizing the terrific job of truly democratizing our unions in the mess too many of them are in today, our present total lack of control and, for many of us, the degradation and frustration of being cowed and afraid, we request that there be included in our new laws a federal right-to-work chapter, forbiding compulsory membership in any union. The vast majority of us will choose and join the unions of our choice in the areas where we work and where we are satisfied. We do not ever want to be forced into any union foreign to our knowledge or control. We want our inalienable right and freedom to join or not to join the local unions where we work or any other union anywhere.

7. Last, but not least, include anti - trust provisions restricting any and all union officials from negating any of the foregoing, and positive elimination of all powers to stop, close or in any way tie up plants, industries, transportation, or public facilities nationwide or over large areas of our country, which cost our union workers billions of lost dollars and can prostrate our America and make it a sitting duck for any sneak attack by an ambitious Russia.

There are only two pathways-only two steps for those millions of fine Americans (our union workers) to select.

First, do nothing - coast - do everything your uncontrolled leaders tell you to do - vote for those uncontrolled congressmen they recommend, thereby speeding the date of our total control under an ISM government from which dwindling purchasing power, handouts and doles to all of us will be gall and hell on earth.

Or, second, by the millions decide to throw off your yoke of servitude to uncontrolled leaders, demand from Congress your own Constitution, select and elect leaders who should and will be your servants, vote your own choice of congressmen whom you think best for America. Get control of your union destiny back in your grasp, and cooperate with all other segments of our society, which have the best chance - maybe our last chance - of saving our republic - our America.

It is up to the union members (the people). Let everything slide down the road toward more and more loss of your freedoms, or cooperatively, by millions, petition all national senators and representatives in your respective states under your Declaration of Independence and request that your Union Consitution be written into the law of our land.

Dear Editor:

Our Sunday School Class decided that the best way to make our feelings known by those who deserve the credit was to write you.

Orchids!! to the teenagers of Sunset who are giving unselfishly of their time for the betterment of Sikeston without any expectation of compensation or reward.

The simple truth is that we are proud of them and want them to know it.

Orchids!! to you too, Ed, for without your excellent coverage of this worthwhile project most of us would be unaware of "where the action is."

The class members all agree that it was an enriching experience to find the good works taking precedence over the bad on the front pages of a newspaper.

Sincerely,
A class of the First

The 34th Annual Stockholder's Meeting Tuesday night at the Sikeston Armory was an outstanding success. We had expected around 500 in attendance and over 12000 turned out.

I want to take this opportunity to thank you and the entire police force for directing our members and guests to and from the meeting in such an orderly manner.

Your department did a fine job, and the association certainly appreciates your assistance.

Last Mining Exchange Deal Closed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Penny stocks are scrambling to other Western markets from the deathbed of their true love, the San Francisco Mining Exchange.

The romantic little old lady died Aug. 15, at age 105.

Since the Gold Rush days she had wooed speculators with a gambler's chance to make a fortune, or lose one. Her's was the lure of gold, silver, copper, uranium at the penny arcade prices of mining companies trying to make a name and a mint.

She died impoverished, almost deserted and in disgrace.

But her passing was mourned by a handful of followers. They came for days after the close to sit facing the empty green chart boards in room 200 at 256 Montgomery Street.

Thirty-one mining companies stayed until the end, then hurried away to seek listings on exchanges in Salt Lake City, Spokane, Calgary, Vancouver, or Pacific Coast Stock Exchange in San Francisco and Los Angeles, or to establish a market in over-the-counter trading.

On the last day only two brokers remained. Business had dwindled from $8 million in 1956, during a uranium revival, to $2 million last year to $725,000 for the six months this year.

The glamour of the mining exchange began fading at the end of the California gold fever a century ago.

The death knell was sounded in 1962 by the Securities Exchange Commission, the government agency which polices stock and bond markets. In its first move of the kind, the SEC threatened to lift the mining exchange's franchise.

The SEC charged, among other things, that the exchange was attempting to distribute "substantially worthless" securities; that there were irregularities involving 16 of the 42 companies then listed, and that the SEC had to step in and stop trading in 27 securities between 1934 and 1962.

For five years the exchange fought back. But volume "diminished to the point where further operation is not feasible," said President George J. Flach

Auto Offer Rejected

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers Union negotiators today unanimously recommended that new contract proposals by the Big Three automakers be rejected as "inadequate and inequitable."

In making their offers Tuesday, the auto companies said they constituted "the highest wage increases ever offered" the union.

The UAW national negotiating committees at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler said they had given careful consideration to the proposals, however, and found them to be unacceptable "when measured against the fantastic profitability and productivity of the automotive industry."

The union negotiators added the offers did not meet the "pressing needs of the automobile industry's workers and their families."

The recommendation that the proposals be rejected came as no surprise. It was expected, since the offers failed to meet several demands which the UAW had considered essential.

Meanwhile, the UAW is expected to select one of the Big Three companies as a strike target in the next two days.

Miner Residents Approve Water System Revenue Bonds, 139-9

MINER -- Residents of this community of about 650 approved the sale of $163,000 in revenue bonds to finance installation of a water system Tuesday 139 to 9.

A 4/7ths majority in favor of the proposal was required.

The water system will include a well, storage tank, pumping station and distribution system.

Construction will not begin until after the revenue bonds are sold. The government guarantees to buy the bonds at 4 1/2 per cent interest to be retired over 35 years, if no one else will buy them at a lower rate, Mrs. Anna Lewis, city clerk, said.

The federal housing and urban department approved the loan for the water system Jan. 12, 1967, provided the voters approved the system and 150 subscribers were obtained.

Customers pay $25 hook up charge and $10 deposit for water meter use, Mrs. Lewis said. She said the number of paid subscribers and those who have promised to subscribe will equal the necessary 150.

Customers rates will be $3.50 per month minimum for the first 2,000 gallons; $1 per 1,000 gallons for the next 2,000 gallons, 60 cents per thousand for the next 5,000 gallons and 40 cents per thousand for the next 10,000 gallons.

Commercial rates start at $4 minimum for the first 2,000 gallons.

Kerner's Election Expected

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP) -- Gov. Otto Kerner, Illinois Democrat, was expected to be elected chairman of the Midwestern Governors Conference at its final session today.

He would succeed Gov. James A. Rhodes, Ohio Republican.

Gov. Nils A. Boe, South Dakota Republican, was expected to be elected vice chairman succeeding Kerner.

Rhodes said the only business scheduled was action on resolutions and election of officers.

Resolutions cover a wide range of subjects, including beefing up National Guard riot training and problems of urban development to stem civil disorders, such as equal opportunity in jobs, housing, education, recreation.

Gov. Roger D. Branigin of Indiana said Tuesday he thought there was widespread discrimination in the judicial and parole systems.

Branigin said at the conference earlier that the setting of bail, sentences and parole practices were discriminatory as between the privileged and underprivileged.

Gov. Harold Le Vander of Minnesota said one remedy might be indeterminate sentences.

Gov. George Romney, Michigan Republican who is considered a potential presidential nominee, planned to leave today for Springfield, Mo., for the first in a series of speeches in 15 states on federal-state relationships and individual rights.

At a news conference, Gov. Robert Docking, Kansas Democrat, said a recent Junior Chamber of Commerce poll in Kansas showed Romney ahead of both former Vice President Richard Nixon and California and Ronald Reagan for the Republican nomination.

He added President Johnson, hurt by the Vietnam war, could not carry Kansas in 1968 in the slide which he did not foresee.

Mines Kill Three

SEOUL (AP) — Mines believed planted by North Koreans in the American sector of the Korean demilitarized zone near Panmunjom exploded under two trucks Tuesday killing three American soldiers and wounding five, reliable American sources report.

The gecko, so named from the sound of its loud call, is a small lizard that live in warm climates.

Conservative Wins Mississippi Runoff

The 48-year-old veteran of two decades in Congress, who lost his seniority for supporting the Republican presidential ticket three years ago, rallied hard-core segregationists and middle-of-the-roaders to his cause with a blistering attack on liberalism.

With reports from the last precincts from Tuesday's voting trickling in, Williams' lead over state Treasurer William Winter approached 60,000 votes. Winter, who topped first primary voting three weeks ago, led this time in only 20 of the 82 counties.

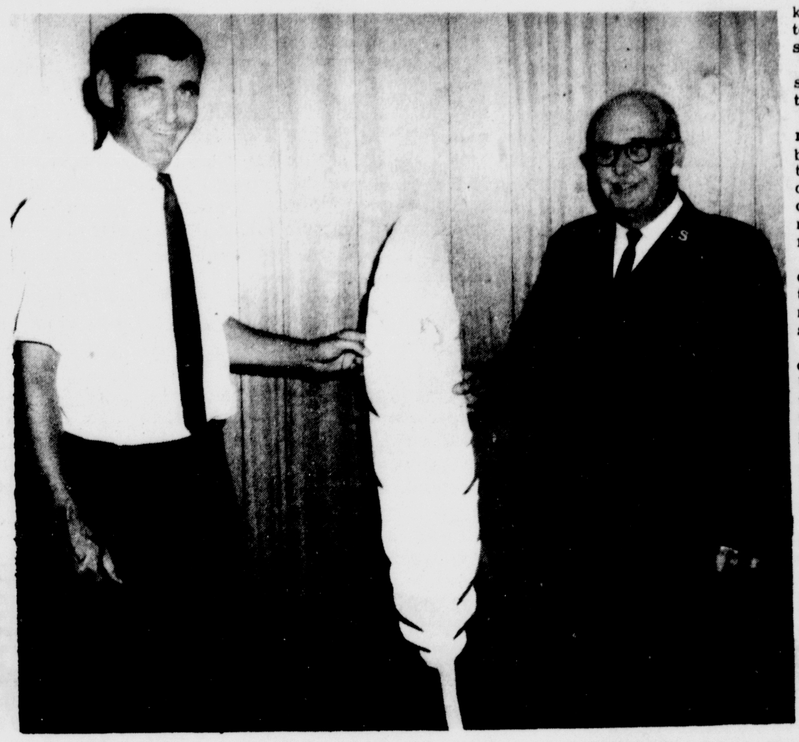
The Williams' vote carried white candidates to victory in all 22 local runoffs where Negroes opposed white candidates, dashing Negro hopes for winning sheriff's posts for the first time since Reconstruction.

Mobbed by several thousand well-wishers at this downtown motel headquarters early today, Williams blurted his thanks into a microphone.

He praised Winter as "a worthy and able man" and called on Democrats to close ranks to defeat Republican challenger Rubel Phillips of Jackson in the Nov. 7 general election. On a state level, the GOP offered only a gubernatorial candidate. They haven't elected a state official this century.

Returns from 1957 of the 2,124 precints gave Williams 348,771 votes and Winter 294,109.

The election hinged on two points from the outset: Whether Negro vote would solidify behind Winter after splitting in the first primary, and whether Williams could get the 124,000 votes of white supremacist Jimmy Swan, the No. 3 man in the first primary.



CHARLES MATTHEWS, left, chairman of the United Fund, and Kenneth Sharp, St. Louis, Salvation army extension director, have a mutual interest in the large feather, the fund emblem. Nasser Foils Planned Coup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Reports circulated in Arab capitals today that Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser had foiled a planned coup against his government by arresting Marshal Abdel Abdul Hakim Amer, his former trusted lieutenant, and a large number of senior army officers.

The reports did not appear in print in most Arab capitals where the press is controlled, but a Kuwait newspaper carried an account.

Up to 150 Egyptian generals and colonels have been reported letained.

Police Report Two Breakins

Two breakins were reported to police today. Items valued at about $180 were reported stolen from Krauss Bargain Center, 883 West Malone.

Seven watches, a bolt action carbine rifle, shotgun and rifle shells and cigarettes were listed as items taken. Entry was gained by breaking a window on the east side of the building, police reported.

Another theft of small tires and about $1 in change was reported at the Hays Saw & Motor Center, 115 South Handy. The breakin was discovered at 7:20 a.m.

The value of items taken is estimated at about $25. Damage to the building was estimated at about $30. A plate glass window on the east side of the shop and a smaller window were broken.

In other activity, police arrested two juveniles in connection with breaking glass on two vending machines at Scott County Milling Co., 410 West Malone, early today. Police reported that two trucks had been tampered with there, and one of them was damaged by striking a loading dock at the company.

William L. Jackson, Thayer, was charged by police Tuesday with defrauding an innkeeper. He was arrested at 103 East Malone. He will be transferred to Scott County authorities.

Henry Brown, route four, Sikeston, was charged at 7:50 p.m. Tuesday with public intoxication. He was arrested on South Frisco.

Youths Continue Painting Houses

A progress report on the work improvement project being conducted by Negro youths in Sunset addition was made today by Harold Wiggin, member of the community betterment committee of Recovery Inc.

Wiggins also is president of the Missourians, a group of Sunset young adult leaders, who organized the project.

About 20 houses have been painted by teenagers who organized their first work party last week.

Trash was hauled Saturday. The city street department provided a dump truck. The city promised a mower for weed cutting.

Grocers provided lunches for the work crews Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Robert Lively said that more than 45 gallons of paint had been delivered. Most of it has been used. More paint is needed.

A follow up plan is being organized by the Missourians. A block party is planned for the workers and other projects for area improvements will be discussed.

Salvation Army Leader Tells Of Services, United Fund

Kenneth Sharp, St. Louis, Salvation Army extension director of the Salvation Army, spoke to two service clubs in Sikeston Tuesday to solicit support of the United Fund drive.

The division headquarters in St. Louis administers the Army's programs in 425 service units in Missouri and southern Illinois.

Military Candidates Expected to Win

SAIGON (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, the military candidates for president and vice president in South Vietnam's election Sunday, appear certain to carry the rural areas where 80 per cent of the voters live.

The leading civilian candidate, former Premier Tran Van Huong, is making inroads against the military ticket in the urban areas of the eight major cities. He is expected to get more votes than his nine civilian rivals but not nearly enough to overtake the powerful military bloc.

These are the conclusions of Associated Press correspondents who felt the pulse of the country in interviews with more than 300 voters scattered from South Vietnam's northernmost provinces down into the Mekong delta.

The interviews indicated that only about one per cent of the 5.85 million registered voters have any idea of the campaign issues.

The Saigon intellectuals, the only people really discussing the election with any depth, are generally opposed to the military and support one of the four leading civilian tickets. One civilian slate headed by the Dai Viet party leader, Ha Thuc Ky, appears to have a major following in the northern provinces around Da Nang and Quang Tri. The Dai Viet political machine has been active there for years.

The three other leading civilians have pockets of support in the old imperial city of Hue, Da Nang, Nha Trang on the central coast, Dalat, Saigon and the delta cities of Can Tho and My Tho.

More than half of those interviewed said they were either undecided or did not wish to discuss their vote.

Red Chinese Cancel British Exit Visas

TOKYO (AP) -- Red China today canceled exit visas of British diplomats stationed in Peking, ordered their movements confined to 400-yard trips between home and office and threatened further retaliation for clashes between London police and Chinese mission personnel who fought them with axes and bats.

Peking Radio, charging that the British government "instigated ruffians to beat up" Chinese diplomats in London in a wild melee Tuesday, said in a broadcast that no British personnel would be allowed to leave their legation compound without submitting applications 48 hours in advance.

"The Chinese government hereby asks the British government in all seriousness: Where do you want to push the relations between China and Britain?" the broadcast said.

There was no immediate response in London, but Foreign Office sources indicated that the only course open to the British was to try to prevent new incidents at the Chinese mission in order not to endanger the British in Peking further. The Foreign Office said the Chinese instigated the clashes.

Rockwell Would Have Liked Near-Funeral

CULPEPER, Va. (AP) -- It was just the kind of near-funeral George Lincoln Rockwell might have wanted.

His small, fanatic band of American Nazis gained center stage in full glare of the national spotlight Tuesday--confronted by the U.S. Army, surrounded by television cameras.

Rockwell had cherished publicity--and did many things to get it.

As a corpse he attained his ultimate publicity.

But at the end of a day at times so weird it was like a bad movie, the body of the slain "fuerher" remained unburied and the Nazis refused to reveal where his body was or what they planned to do with it.

Rockwell's followers refused to doff their Nazi insignia and leave their swastika flag behind to enter the peaceful little Culpeper National Cemetery and bury their assassinated chief.

But those were the ground rules laid down by the Army. And when it came time for the government gravediggers to go home the Army rescinded its permission for ex-Navy Cmdr. Rockwell to be interred in Culpeper -- or any other military cemetery.

Auto Offer Rejected

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers Union negotiators today unanimously recommended that new contract proposals by the Big Three automakers be rejected as "inadequate and inequitable."

In making their offers Tuesday, the auto companies said they constituted "the highest wage increases ever offered" the union.

The UAW national negotiating committees at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler said they had given careful consideration to the proposals, however, and found them to be unacceptable "when measured against the fantastic profitability and productivity of the automotive industry."

The union negotiators added the offers did not meet the "pressing needs of the automobile industry's workers and their families."

The recommendation that the proposals be rejected came as no surprise. It was expected, since the offers failed to meet several demands which the UAW had considered essential.

Meanwhile, the UAW is expected to select one of the Big Three companies as a strike target in the next two days.

Miner Residents Approve Water System Revenue Bonds, 139-9

MINER -- Residents of this community of about 650 approved the sale of $163,000 in revenue bonds to finance installation of a water system Tuesday 139 to 9.

A 4/7ths majority in favor of the proposal was required.

The water system will include a well, storage tank, pumping station and distribution system.

Construction will not begin until after the revenue bonds are sold. The government guarantees to buy the bonds at 4 1/2 per cent interest to be retired over 35 years, if no one else will buy them at a lower rate, Mrs. Anna Lewis, city clerk, said.

The federal housing and urban department approved the loan for the water system Jan. 12, 1967, provided the voters approved the system and 150 subscribers were obtained.

Customers pay $25 hook up charge and $10 deposit for water meter use, Mrs. Lewis said. She said the number of paid subscribers and those who have promised to subscribe will equal the necessary 150.

Customers rates will be $3.50 per month minimum for the first 2,000 gallons; $1 per 1,000 gallons for the next 2,000 gallons, 60 cents per thousand for the next 5,000 gallons and 40 cents per thousand for the next 10,000 gallons.

Commercial rates start at $4 minimum for the first 2,000 gallons.

Conservative Wins Mississippi Runoff

The 48-year-old veteran of two decades in Congress, who lost his seniority for supporting the Republican presidential ticket three years ago, rallied hard-core segregationists and middle-of-the-roaders to his cause with a blistering attack on liberalism.

With reports from the last precincts from Tuesday's voting trickling in, Williams' lead over state Treasurer William Winter approached 60,000 votes. Winter, who topped first primary voting three weeks ago, led this time in only 20 of the 82 counties.

The Williams' vote carried white candidates to victory in all 22 local runoffs where Negroes opposed white candidates, dashing Negro hopes for winning sheriff's posts for the first time since Reconstruction.

Mobbed by several thousand well-wishers at this downtown motel headquarters early today, Williams blurted his thanks into a microphone.

He praised Winter as "a worthy and able man" and called on Democrats to close ranks to defeat Republican challenger Rubel Phillips of Jackson in the Nov. 7 general election. On a state level, the GOP offered only a gubernatorial candidate. They haven't elected a state official this century.

Returns from 1957 of the 2,124 precints gave Williams 348,771 votes and Winter 294,109.

The election hinged on two points from the outset: Whether Negro vote would solidify behind Winter after splitting in the first primary, and whether Williams could get the 124,000 votes of white supremacist Jimmy Swan, the No. 3 man in the first primary.

Police Report Two Breakins

Two breakins were reported to police today. Items valued at about $180 were reported stolen from Krauss Bargain Center, 883 West Malone.

Seven watches, a bolt action carbine rifle, shotgun and rifle shells and cigarettes were listed as items taken. Entry was gained by breaking a window on the east side of the building, police reported.

Another theft of small tires and about $1 in change was reported at the Hays Saw & Motor Center, 115 South Handy. The breakin was discovered at 7:20 a.m.

The value of items taken is estimated at about $25. Damage to the building was estimated at about $30. A plate glass window on the east side of the shop and a smaller window were broken.

In other activity, police arrested two juveniles in connection with breaking glass on two vending machines at Scott County Milling Co., 410 West Malone, early today. Police reported that two trucks had been tampered with there, and one of them was damaged by striking a loading dock at the company.

William L. Jackson, Thayer, was charged by police Tuesday with defrauding an innkeeper. He was arrested at 103 East Malone. He will be transferred to Scott County authorities.

Henry Brown, route four, Sikeston, was charged at 7:50 p.m. Tuesday with public intoxication. He was arrested on South Frisco.

College students paint houses during the day and are joined by other youths after school.

Trash was hauled Saturday. The city street department provided a dump truck. The city promised a mower for weed cutting.

Grocers provided lunches for the work crews Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Robert Lively said that more than 45 gallons of paint had been delivered. Most of it has been used. More paint is needed.

A follow up plan is being organized by the Missourians. A block party is planned for the workers and other projects for area improvements will be discussed.

Kerner's Election Expected

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP) -- Gov. Otto Kerner, Illinois Democrat, was expected to be elected chairman of the Midwestern Governors Conference at its final session today.

He would succeed Gov. James A. Rhodes, Ohio Republican.

Gov. Nils A. Boe, South Dakota Republican, was expected to be elected vice chairman succeeding Kerner.

Rhodes said the only business scheduled was action on resolutions and election of officers.

Resolutions cover a wide range of subjects, including beefing up National Guard riot training and problems of urban development to stem civil disorders, such as equal opportunity in jobs, housing, education, recreation.

Gov. Roger D. Branigin of Indiana said Tuesday he thought there was widespread discrimination in the judicial and parole systems.

Branigin said at the conference earlier that the setting of bail, sentences and parole practices were discriminatory as between the privileged and underprivileged.

Gov. Harold Le Vander of Minnesota said one remedy might be indeterminate sentences.

Gov. George Romney, Michigan Republican who is considered a potential presidential nominee, planned to leave today for Springfield, Mo., for the first in a series of speeches in 15 states on federal-state relationships and indivividual rights.

At a news conference, Gov. Robert Docking, Kansas Democrat, said a recent Junior Chamber of Commerce poll in Kansas showed Romney ahead of both former Vice President Richard Nixon and California and Ronald Reagan for the Republican nomination.

He added President Johnson, hurt by the Vietnam war, could not carry Kansas in 1968 in the slide which he did not foresee.

Chrysler Will Raise Prices

CHICAGO (AP) — Lynn Townsend, chairman and chief executive of Chrysler Corp., said today that 1968 model automobile prices will be higher regardless of the outcome of negotiations between automakers and the United Auto Workers.

Townsend spoke to newsmen at the national news preview of Chrysler products for the 1968 season. He said the rise in costs of materials, labor and added equipment for safety left manufacturers with no choice other than to hike prices.

Red Chinese Cancel British Exit Visas

TOKYO (AP) -- Red China today canceled exit visas of British diplomats stationed in Peking, ordered their movements confined to 400-yard trips between home and office and threatened further retaliation for clashes between London police and Chinese mission personnel who fought them with axes and bats.

Peking Radio, charging that the British government "instigated ruffians to beat up" Chinese diplomats in London in a wild melee Tuesday, said in a broadcast that no British personnel would be allowed to leave their legation compound without submitting applications 48 hours in advance.

"The Chinese government hereby asks the British government in all seriousness: Where do you want to push the relations between China and Britain?" the broadcast said.

There was no immediate response in London, but Foreign Office sources indicated that the only course open to the British was to try to prevent new incidents at the Chinese mission in order not to endanger the British in Peking further. The Foreign Office said the Chinese instigated the clashes.

LABOR DAY -- A TIME TO THINK

Labor Day, to be observed on September 4th this year, marks the termination of summer, in the minds of most people. It is the last long holiday of the season and is a time for the final outing of swimming, picnicking, boating, or just loafing. The meaning of Labor Day is lost for many in the frantic pursuit of fun. Never before have so many people been able to enjoy the leisure, the luxuries and comforts we see around us in these United States. The rights of labor have never been so certain, nor its obligation to act in a responsible manner more necessary. We must not become insensible to the time-honored virtues of thrift, competence and pride in a job well done.

These are the things that have made possible the turning of Labor Day into a holiday of fun and leisure. These are the things that Labor Day commemorates, and if the nation is to survive in its greatness, they will be needed as never before in this years to come. They are needed now desperately to back up the men in Viet Nam, let alone all future advancements in space, science, industry and technology. Think of these things as you go to the beach, the lake or to the mountains this Labor Day.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
THE STRONGEST CANDIDATE YET

As if the Democratic party in Missouri didn't have enough problems of its own with recent disclosures on activities of the state's junior U. S. Senator, along with the unofficial word that U. S. Rep. Thomas Curtis of St. Louis has all but decided to make the race for U. S. Senate next year.

When, and if, Tom Curtis enters the race, he will enhance the chances for a Republican victory by 100 fold; he is the ideal candidate for the GOP to field next year.

Rep. Curtis, a member of the House since 1950, is a proven vote-getter, battling Republicans in the primary and Democrats in the general election year after year. He has never been defeated for re-election, after losing his first time around in a rugged Republican primary in 1948. His record in Congress is excellent, and his leadership in the national GOP counsels is considerable.

Rep. Curtis is the strongest candidate for Senator the Republicans can put forth, and his willingness to sacrifice his years of seniority in the House is an indication that he feels he has a good chance to lead the Republican party to victory next year. He has not often been wrong in making political decisions.

There is no question that Curtis has been encouraged to make the race because of the recent disclosures on the activities of our junior U. S. Senator. His candidacy has been greatly enhanced, and will be even further enhanced should Sen. Long win next year's primary election, a possibility that should not be overlooked. It is also, to be sure, a possibility the Republicans and particularly Curtis undoubtedly are hoping and praying for.

Rep. Curtis will unquestionably wage the kind of campaign in 1968 that he was always waged in his own Second district -- vigorous, hard-hitting and more or less partisan. He can be expected to discuss a great many issues, including the conflict of interest question that now plagues Sen. Long.

We are convinced that the Republican party in Missouri faces, in 1968, its greatest opportunity to become once again a vibrant and active political entity. It is strange, indeed, that this opportunity for revival and new life should be handed to the GOP by the Democrats.

VICE ON THE RISE

The revised New York State Criminal Code which goes into effect on Friday, Sept. 1, will reduce the maximum penalty for prostitution from one year to 15 days.

JUST WHEN VENEREAL DISEASE is rising dangerously, prositution -- a principal cause -- is getting to be almost socially acceptable. Midtown New York is being compared to Rio de Janeiro's Avenida Atlantica, Paris' Rue Godot de Mauroy, or Rome's Passeggiata Archelogica or Via Veneto.

A chance in the New York criminal law next month will make prostitution about as harmless as spitting on the street. Even if convicted, the girls will spend only 15 days in jail. Almost certain is a decision to close down Women's Court and try prostitution cases in regular parts of Criminal Court.

Mary K. Lindsay, superintendent of the New York City House of Detention, says: "There will be hardly time to bring them in, give them a physical and a set of clothing before we send them out on the street again." And on the street they are almost bound to go. Of the 795 women arrested in midtown Manhattan in the first six months of this year, 67 per cent had prior prositution records. Each girl averaged seven arrests.

ABOUT HALF THE STATES have adequate laws against prostitution, although they exempt the customers. Even so, the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta said on May 1 that gonorrhea was pretty much out of control, spreading virtually unchecked in the nation's metropolitan centers. Gonorrhea has become so widespread that the center concentrates instead on the much more serious venereal disease, syphilis.

Of the reported cases of venereal disease, about half involve persons 25 years of age or younger. A very significant proportion of them are teenagers.

Despite the upcoming change in the New York law, New York City police have been cracking down on hookers. On the night of Aug. 20 and the early hours of the following morning police arrested 50 women in the Times Square area on prostitution charges. For the whole weekend, 256 women were booked.

Average bail ran to $300. Deputy Police Commissioner Jacques Nevard observes that even now: "Jail for the girls is a revolving door." Bail is not hard for the ponces (pimps) to arrange. A girl who makes as much as $150 a 12-hour working day -- prices actually go up as high as $500 -- may keep only $10 for herself.

OFFERING ONESELF for sexual intercourse for mercenary purposes goes back as far as recorded history. In ancient times and in some primitive societies, prostituion had religious connotation -- intercourse with temple maidens was an act of worship of the temple deity. The Columbia Encyclopedia says: "The Greek heterae were often women of intelligence and standing, but in Rome prostitutes (meretrices) were . . . forced to wear wigs and special garments."

History repeats. Bouffant vermilion coiffures, patterned stockings, and silver demi-mini-dresses are affected by Times Square prosties.

Even male prostitutes now seem in vogue. Variety reports that Andy Warhol's My Hustler, about a male homosexual hooker, "seems settled for a long, successful run" in New York. The best-selling book, Midnight Cowboy, is about a male hustler. In both sexes the relationship between prostitution and homosexuality is undeniably high. Many female prostitutes are lesbians. A high percentage also are drug addicts.

NEW YORK (AP) — Tired of hearing about men who went from rags to riches?

Listen, then, to the tale of Edward Fields, who has made riches from rugs.

Eddie has made a rug shaped like a piano for Liberace.

Eddie made the carpet for "Air Force One," the plane in which Lyndon B. Johnson stood when he took his first presidential oath.

Eddie made the huge oval "carpet of the United States in the Diplomatic Room at the White House.

Eddie has also made rugs or tapestries for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D.-N.Y., Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, the Vanderbilts, the Astors, Mary Martin, John Steinbeck, Prince Rainier of Monaco and Milton Berle.

In 1935 Eddie was 21 and pocket poor after five years of selling carpets for other firms. Then his brother, bandleader Shep Fields, gave him $500 as a wedding present.

"I decided to use it to start my own firm," said Eddie.

How was business? In two syllables it was "lousy." It was still bad in 1946 when Fields went to a night club in Hollywood to forget his troubles for the evening.

"A fortuneteller in the club told me that a man with the initials 'J.B.' would come into my life and change it," he recalled.

Soon after that Fields met an elderly Viennese, Joseph Blumfield, who had invented a hand-held rug-making machine.

Eddie bought the gadget from Blumfield under an arrangement that guaranteed him lifetime royalties and then set about improving it.

That machine, nicknamed "the magic needle," began to stitch a pattern of wealth for Fields.

Eddie now has 250 of the machines, each of which, he says, can turn out as much work in a day as 20 Japanese hand workers. In a year, although he keeps production figures secret, he claims they enable him to manufacture as much yardage as the entire carpeting industry of Persia at its peak.

"I never have patented my magic needles, because it would simply make it that much easier for competitors to steal the secret," he said. "But they are checked out individually to my workmen, and at night I keep them locked in a steel and concrete vault. Only my son and I have keys to the vault."

But no machine by itself could explain Eddie's success. Showmanship runs in his family. Another brother, Freddie Fields, runs a talent agency which handles such entertainment notables as Barbra Streisand, Peter Sellers, Rock Hudson, and Phil Silvers. And Eddie is an outstanding showman himself.

The balding, fastidiously dressed manufacturer moves in fashionable society and top business circles, knows most of his famous customers on a first-name basis.

They pay without wincing prices that range from $350 to $20,000 for a carpet. Fields keeps a stock of 100,000 spools of wool, several thousand basic designs, and prides himself that no two of the 10,000 rugs he creates each year are exactly alike.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH: A TWO-WAY STREET

President Johnson put it succinctly the other day:

"We must guard every man's right to speak, but we must defend every man's right to answer."

It is not a statement that will appeal to the dissenters at whom it was directed.

The first clause offends because it punctures the aura of martyrdom in which a few of the protesters against the war in Vietnam in particular and the government in general have wrapped themselves. It is difficult to be a martyr to a cause when authority defends your right to embrace that cause.

And since the President obviously includes himself and his administration in the second half of his sentence, this too will offend some of the dissenters.

To a small but loud-spoken minority of them, freedom of speech seems to mean the right to call the President of the United States a "buffoon," his secretary of defense a "racist" and his secretary of state a "murderer." It does not entail the right of these men to reply.

It is unfortunate that there have been some attempts, in and out of government, to equate dissent with disloyalty. In the face of the more extreme accusations that have been made against the nation and its leaders, it is a wonder there have not been more.

The President's statement should now make it clear that this is neither his way nor the traditional American way of doing things.

Even if the President is not believed, the fact remains that the war dissenters are and have been and will continue to be free to protest and demonstrate and express themselves all they want.

That they have so far failed to sway either the government or any great numbers of the people is more an indictment of their ideas and tactics than would be any misguided official or unofficial attempts to suppress them.

History will determine whether the dissenters are right or wrong about Vietnam. But one thing can be said with certainty today: The President was never more right when he said that freedom of speech will never harm America "as long as we remember it is a two - way street."

IN his weekly article in the Saturday Review, Granville Hicks used the word 'borborygmus.' Unfortunately, he spelled it with an extra 'y'. The mistake prompted 166 readers to write. Some were concerned about the spelling, but most of the readers wished to assure Hicks that they were familiar with the word, having encountered it in their reading of books by Aldous Huxley, Richard Haydn, and Graham Greene.

In the third Webster's International, borborygmus is defined as 'a rumbling sound made by the movement of gas in the intestine.'

As unidentified rhymester put it this way:

I sat by the duchess at tea
It was just as I knew it would be
Her rumblings abdominal
Were simply abominable
And everyone blamed them on me.

Ogden Nash is also quoted:

Once my interal rumblings at parties
caused me to wish I could shrink to nothing, or at least to a pigmy,
But now I proudly inquire, Can everybody hear my borborygmi?

UNION OF STATES

In reforming our antiquated Electoral College system, sight must not be lost of the importance of maintaining the U.S. as a union of states. This can be done through adoption of a constitutional amendment placing the Congressional District Plan in effect. But adoption of the direct vote for President and Vice President would cause the Federal Government to come into the states to conduct each presidential election.

The Federal Government would establish rules for absentee voting. It would impose age limits for voting to apply to all states equally. In two states suffrage now begins at age 18; in one state at age 19, and in four states at age 20. Under the direct vote plan such differences between states would not be permitted. The central government also would come into the states to prescribe the required period of residence for suffrage.

The conduct of presidential elections within the states by the Federal Government would be the forerunner of its conducting the elections for U.S. senators, governors, congressmen, state legislators, county officials, mayors and school boards. In fact, election of the President by direct vote would be tantamount to electing senators and representatives on a national basis rather than each state and district electing its own. The final result probably would be a nationwide election of these officials without regard for their place of residence.

Any delegate voting system is better than direct voting. Abolition of the Electorcal College would mean election of the President without the states participating as individual entities. That would be a severe blow to the Republic. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Locked in secret files AF 12-567 and NDA 7-258 at the food and drug administration is disturbing evidence that the government's doctors are less assured than its spokesmen about the harmless effects of artificial sweeteners.

The soaring consumption of diet drinks and low-calorie desserts, indeed, has deepened the doctors' concern. Yet the FDA still stands on its May 20, 1965, announcement that "there is no evidence that cyclamates (sugar substitutes), at present use levels, are a hazard to health."

At the same time this conclusion was announced out of the front office, the doctors were expressing grave doubts in the back rooms. The conclusion supposedly was based upon "new experimental data of the safety of cyclamates, including animal studies, tests involving ingestion by children and other data."

However, this column has been given a surreptitious peek at file AF 12-567, which shows that the tests were just beginning at the time of the May, 1965, announcement. The results were carefully segregated, incidentally, so the doctors could not review the complete data but only the details that concerned them.

The FDA, having previously certified artificial sweeteners as safe, could hardly retract its endorsement without leaving the nation's food-and-beverage distributors with a lot of low-calorie soda pop on their hands.

Throughout the controversy, no one has been more eager to protect the public from the alleged evils of sugar substitutes than the sugar industry, which stands to lose millions because of the diet craze.

As early as 1964, the sugar foundation commissioned the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation to investigate the low-calorie threat. Its doctors triumphantly discovered that artificial sweeteners can stunt the growth of rats. Laboratory rats, treated to sugar-free soft drinks, suffered a 12 to 50 per cent loss of growth.

PEOPLE VS. RATS

The experiment brought an outraged howl from such enterprises as Abbott Laboratories, which produces cyclamates, and Royal Crown Cola, which was first on the market with Diet Cola. They protested that people, at least biologically speaking, aren't rats.

As the two rival industries squared off, information on cyclamates began to spill over the scientific embankment into the lay lands below.

FDA's doctors, in particular, became increasingly concerned over the mass usage of artificial sweeteners. A drop or two in a cup of coffee, they agreed, was no health menace. But evidence began to show up of adverse effects on people whose intake was heavy.

H. P. Packscher of food and drug put through a long-distance call to Abbott Laboratories in Chicago on March 4, 1965. He reached Hartley Ericson, then dictated a memo for the secret file.

"I called Mr. Ericson," Packscher dictated, "to arrange a meeting to discuss the data on Sucaryl (a sweetener) which Abbott submitted last fall, providing our staff members an opportunity to ask questions which they feel are unanswered in the submissions."

The meeting was held on March 17. A "memorandum of conference," summarizing the discussion, declared:

"The toxicologists report that the cyclamates are poorly absorbed and pharmacologically inert. The absorbed portion is excreted unchanged in the urine, while that remaining in the intestine provokes diarrhea when given in large amounts... clinically, the organ system about which there is some concern is the liver."

Because of the uncertainties, the doctors sought more data. It was agreed at a subsequent meeting, April 13, 1965, to go ahead with several tests. The confidential report of the discussion indicated a lack of enthusiasm by the Abbott representatives.

"The discussion of present and proposed studies in children," said the report, "brought out several problems, including issues which we had regarded as needing resolution... The Abbott representatives cited difficulties associated with developing long-term studies in children. Appropriate groups are difficult to find. Orphanages, for example, do not have many young children, and the older ones come in and go out of these institutions. Also, there are legal problems involved...

ABBOTT DRAGS HEELS

"Concerning the daily dose of cyclamates used in the study, the feeling was that higher doses would interfere with the children's eating habits. There will remains the question of what happens to children who drink 10 bottles of soft drink with artificial sweetener per day. At present there is no answer... the issue of cyclamate secretion in the milk of lactating mothers was raised, and the firm stated they are doing studies in animals."

Dr. G. R. Hazel of Abbott delivered a lecture on how insignificant a percentage of cyclamates goes into soft drinks.

"He stated further," said the report, "that probably less than 25 per cent of sugar is replaced by artificial sweeteners. Finally, Abbott feels the current proposals do not represent the end, but rather they are thinking in terms of three to five years to develop scientific and medical information on the cyclamates."

Without waiting for these studies, FDA issued its announcement that cyclamates were safe. But it didn't reckon with the sugar lobby, which brought pressure from Capitol Hill for a more thorough investigation.

FDA finally slipped a $46,000 contract to Albany Medical College under the guise of a pesticide study to look deeper into the health effects of artificial sweeteners. Dr. Frederick Coulston, who is directing the study, is not ready to announce the results.

But he would say this much: The use of artificial sweeteners should be restricted to persons who really need to cut out sugar. It is possible their use will get out of hand."

Note: Dr. Coulston claims FDA is now negotiating a new contract with him. But the FDA, in keeping with its secrecy over sweeteners, denied to this column that a new contract would be negotiated.

British Labor Government Moves Swiftly To Smash Black Power Racists Before Riots Can Hit Streets

LONDON -- The blunt words came quietly, but quite firmly, from one of Britain's highest leaders as we sat in one of the House of Commons' book-lined offices:

"The Labor government believes that all men are equal but no one is more equal than others simply because he is black, boisterous and inciting to riot. We won't have it."

Our conversation had centered around England's own Stokeley Carmichael -- a chap known variously as Michael X, Michael DeFreitas, and Michael Abdul Malik. He is the violence-peddling, 34-year-old, black-bearded, self-styled Muslim "leader," the power in the "Racial Adjustment Action Society."

Michael X, an ex-seaman born in Trinidad, speaking with relish and gore of having murdered a white man, stood in for Carmichael in an upland city when Laborite Home Secretary Roy Jenkins ordered the "American" out of Britain permanently for attempting to whip up riots.

It is, of course, consequential to note that Stokely Carmichael's associate here is a silk-shirted, chauffeur-driven, former racketeer who admits to having run brothels, strong-armed the poor, set Alsatian dogs on them, and slept better after his first murder. More on this in a moment to show the kind of associate Stokeley selects to speak for Britain's one million colored people (which, of course, he doesn't).

What is more immediate and vital to the Americans is the British Labor government's attitude toward those who would enflame the colored population of such "ghetto" cities as Manchester, Birmingham and Liverpool. Remember, this is a government of Socialists, left-wing and moderate, as well as of labor leaders. Every Laborite member of Parliament must be a member of a trade union.

So, no one can call it fascist or extremist.

But this Labor government sees no inconsistency in deporting aliens or indicting Britons who want to send hoodlums rioting and burning into the streets of their cities.

The Home Secretary, Roy Jenkins, is a veteran Laborite. His ministry oversees Scotland Yard. Its Special Branch does not surreptitiously dispatch detectives to stake out in secret meetings called by such as Michael X. The police simply stand there with their notebooks, getting the quotes, making certain of witnesses. Then they dispatch their reports to Mr. Jenkins.

He has the authority to deport the incendiaries such as Carmichael and Michael X. DeFreitas. It is not considered inconsistent with the Labor Party's democratic precepts to send "the chap packing." In the U.S., this would be almost impossible. The courts would drag the affair out for years while cities burned.

The Laborites, feeling no sense of psychological insecurity, do not listen idly to talk of the killing of "white monkeys" spouted by the so-called Muslims. They are developing the record on such as Michael DeFreitas when he shouts outside a university like the London School of Economics that "violence has been perpetrated against us and we shall have to use the same methods."

This sort of talk of blood-letting, now so prevalent in the U.S., is a violation of the Race Relations Act which cuts two ways. It will punish the colored as well as white violators. Under this law all are equal.

It took the Queen's Counsel, the Rt. Hon. Sir Dingle Foot, and the police authorities exactly three weeks to bring in an indictment against the Muslim's Michael X after he substituted for Stokely Carmichael at a public meeting in Reading. The British racist was charged with "intent to stir up hatred against a section of the public in Great Britain distinguished in color."

He was accused of using words likely to stir up hatred against that section "on the grounds of color."

The gaily bedecked, purple-shirted, gold-spangled Muslim laughed it off -- but he faces a sentence of two years in prison and a $2,800 fine. Not severe, but enough to teach him a lesson.

Nor are this government and its various commissions hesitant to launch "inquiries" before riots stir up bloody storms. One conference here called by the National Committee for Commonwealth Immigrants actually heard testimony from American labor officials. This government is not frightened of listening to anyone who can help, regardless of their origin.

Since riots and civil strife are everybody's concern, the Confederation of British Industries dispatched a prestigious delegation of its top leaders to a racial integration conference with an equally noted labor group at the Trades Union Congress headquarters last June. Thus the British counterparts of the U. S. National Assn. of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce discussed the common problem with the counterpart of the AFL-CIO.

But the Laborite Government is not waiting for commission or conference reports which will take eight to ten months. Nor is it piling up archives on which will rest the dust of royal tradition.

If a man has a racket record, the government is not bullied by his militant racial outcries. Thus in the case of Stokely Carmichael's counterpart here, the attorney general has Michael X's record. They know on what streets he ran his houses of prostitution. They know of his strong-arm work for a notorious slumlord called "Rachman" for whom Mike DeFreitas collected exhorbitant rents or frightened poor families so their empty apartments could be leased at rentals beyond the rent-freeze limits. DeFreitas would smash gas meters, slash the electric power supply, sic dogs on the apartments of the poor, virtually all of them colored people.

He will not escape this record of violence and exploitation of his own people. He will not be permitted to unleash riots. The people here, white and black, know it.

Americans should know it too. They should know that this DeFreitas says he has been to Moscow and Cuba. They should know what manner of man is chosen by the Stokely Carmichaels. They should know that there is a government which does not believe it is indecent to crack down on the social racketeers before the hoodlums destroy society bit by bit.

LABOR DAY -- A TIME TO THINK

Labor Day, to be observed on September 4th this year, marks the termination of summer, in the minds of most people. It is the last long holiday of the season and is a time for the final outing of swimming, picnicking, boating, or just loafing. The meaning of Labor Day is lost for many in the frantic pursuit of fun. Never before have so many people been able to enjoy the leisure, the luxuries and comforts we see around us in these United States. The rights of labor have never been so certain, nor its obligation to act in a responsible manner more necessary. We must not become insensible to the time-honored virtues of thrift, competence and pride in a job well done.

These are the things that have made possible the turning of Labor Day into a holiday of fun and leisure. These are the things that Labor Day commemorates, and if the nation is to survive in its greatness, they will be needed as never before in this years to come. They are needed now desperately to back up the men in Viet Nam, let alone all future advancements in space, science, industry and technology. Think of these things as you go to the beach, the lake or to the mountains this Labor Day.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
THE STRONGEST CANDIDATE YET

As if the Democratic party in Missouri didn't have enough problems of its own with recent disclosures on activities of the state's junior U. S. Senator, along with the unofficial word that U. S. Rep. Thomas Curtis of St. Louis has all but decided to make the race for U. S. Senate next year.

When, and if, Tom Curtis enters the race, he will enhance the chances for a Republican victory by 100 fold; he is the ideal candidate for the GOP to field next year.

Rep. Curtis, a member of the House since 1950, is a proven vote-getter, battling Republicans in the primary and Democrats in the general election year after year. He has never been defeated for re-election, after losing his first time around in a rugged Republican primary in 1948. His record in Congress is excellent, and his leadership in the national GOP counsels is considerable.

Rep. Curtis is the strongest candidate for Senator the Republicans can put forth, and his willingness to sacrifice his years of seniority in the House is an indication that he feels he has a good chance to lead the Republican party to victory next year. He has not often been wrong in making political decisions.

There is no question that Curtis has been encouraged to make the race because of the recent disclosures on the activities of our junior U. S. Senator. His candidacy has been greatly enhanced, and will be even further enhanced should Sen. Long win next year's primary election, a possibility that should not be overlooked. It is also, to be sure, a possibility the Republicans and particularly Curtis undoubtedly are hoping and praying for.

Rep. Curtis will unquestionably wage the kind of campaign in 1968 that he was always waged in his own Second district -- vigorous, hard-hitting and more or less partisan. He can be expected to discuss a great many issues, including the conflict of interest question that now plagues Sen. Long.

We are convinced that the Republican party in Missouri faces, in 1968, its greatest opportunity to become once again a vibrant and active political entity. It is strange, indeed, that this opportunity for revival and new life should be handed to the GOP by the Democrats.

VICE ON THE RISE

The revised New York State Criminal Code which goes into effect on Friday, Sept. 1, will reduce the maximum penalty for prostitution from one year to 15 days.

JUST WHEN VENEREAL DISEASE is rising dangerously, prositution -- a principal cause -- is getting to be almost socially acceptable. Midtown New York is being compared to Rio de Janeiro's Avenida Atlantica, Paris' Rue Godot de Mauroy, or Rome's Passeggiata Archelogica or Via Veneto.

A chance in the New York criminal law next month will make prostitution about as harmless as spitting on the street. Even if convicted, the girls will spend only 15 days in jail. Almost certain is a decision to close down Women's Court and try prostitution cases in regular parts of Criminal Court.

Mary K. Lindsay, superintendent of the New York City House of Detention, says: "There will be hardly time to bring them in, give them a physical and a set of clothing before we send them out on the street again." And on the street they are almost bound to go. Of the 795 women arrested in midtown Manhattan in the first six months of this year, 67 per cent had prior prositution records. Each girl averaged seven arrests.

ABOUT HALF THE STATES have adequate laws against prostitution, although they exempt the customers. Even so, the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta said on May 1 that gonorrhea was pretty much out of control, spreading virtually unchecked in the nation's metropolitan centers. Gonorrhea has become so widespread that the center concentrates instead on the much more serious venereal disease, syphilis.

Of the reported cases of venereal disease, about half involve persons 25 years of age or younger. A very significant proportion of them are teenagers.

Despite the upcoming change in the New York law, New York City police have been cracking down on hookers. On the night of Aug. 20 and the early hours of the following morning police arrested 50 women in the Times Square area on prostitution charges. For the whole weekend, 256 women were booked.

Average bail ran to $300. Deputy Police Commissioner Jacques Nevard observes that even now: "Jail for the girls is a revolving door." Bail is not hard for the ponces (pimps) to arrange. A girl who makes as much as $150 a 12-hour working day -- prices actually go up as high as $500 -- may keep only $10 for herself.

OFFERING ONESELF for sexual intercourse for mercenary purposes goes back as far as recorded history. In ancient times and in some primitive societies, prostituion had religious connotation -- intercourse with temple maidens was an act of worship of the temple deity. The Columbia Encyclopedia says: "The Greek heterae were often women of intelligence and standing, but in Rome prostitutes (meretrices) were . . . forced to wear wigs and special garments."

History repeats. Bouffant vermilion coiffures, patterned stockings, and silver demi-mini-dresses are affected by Times Square prosties.

Even male prostitutes now seem in vogue. Variety reports that Andy Warhol's My Hustler, about a male homosexual hooker, "seems settled for a long, successful run" in New York. The best-selling book, Midnight Cowboy, is about a male hustler. In both sexes the relationship between prostitution and homosexuality is undeniably high. Many female prostitutes are lesbians. A high percentage also are drug addicts.

NEW YORK (AP) — Tired of hearing about men who went from rags to riches?

Listen, then, to the tale of Edward Fields, who has made riches from rugs.

Eddie has made a rug shaped like a piano for Liberace.

Eddie made the carpet for "Air Force One," the plane in which Lyndon B. Johnson stood when he took his first presidential oath.

Eddie made the huge oval "carpet of the United States in the Diplomatic Room at the White House.

Eddie has also made rugs or tapestries for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D.,N.Y., Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, the Vanderbilts, the Astors, Mary Martin, John Steinbeck, Prince Rainier of Monaco and Milton Berle.

In 1935 Eddie was 21 and pocket poor after five years of selling carpets for other firms. Then his brother, bandleader Shep Fields, gave him $500 as a wedding present.

"I decided to use it to start my own firm," said Eddie.

How was business? In two syllables it was "lousy." It was still bad in 1946 when Fields went to a night club in Hollywood to forget his troubles for the evening.

"A fortuneteller in the club told me that a man with the initials 'J.B.' would come into my life and change it," he recalled.

Soon after that Fields met an elderly Viennese, Joseph Blumfield, who had invented a hand-held rug-making machine.

Eddie bought the gadget from Blumfield under an arrangement that guaranteed him lifetime royalties and then set about improving it.

That machine, nicknamed "the magic needle," began to stitch a pattern of wealth for Fields.

Eddie now has 250 of the machines, each of which, he says, can turn out as much work in a day as 20 Japanese hand workers. In a year, although he keeps production figures secret, he claims they enable him to manufacture as much yardage as the entire carpeting industry of Persia at its peak.

"I never have patented my magic needles, because it would simply make it that much easier for competitors to steal the secret," he said. "But they are checked out individually to my workmen, and at night I keep them locked in a steel and concrete vault. Only my son and I have keys to the vault."

But no machine by itself could explain Eddie's success. Showmanship runs in his family. Another brother, Freddie Fields, runs a talent agency which handles such entertainment notables as Barbra Streisand, Peter Sellers, Rock Hudson, and Phil Silvers. And Eddie is an outstanding showman himself.

The balding, fastidiously dressed manufacturer moves in fashionable society and top business circles, knows most of his famous customers on a first-name basis.

They pay without wincing prices that range from $350 to $20,000 for a carpet. Fields keeps a stock of 100,000 spools of wool, several thousand basic designs, and prides himself that no two of the 10,000 rugs he creates each year are exactly alike.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH: A TWO-WAY STREET

President Johnson put it succinctly the other day:

"We must guard every man's right to speak, but we must defend every man's right to answer."

It is not a statement that will appeal to the dissenters at whom it was directed.

The first clause offends because it punctures the aura of martyrdom in which a few of the protesters against the war in Vietnam in particular and the government in general have wrapped themselves. It is difficult to be a martyr to a cause when authority defends your right to embrace that cause.

And since the President obviously includes himself and his administration in the second half of his sentence, this too will offend some of the dissenters.

To a small but loud-spoken minority of them, freedom of speech seems to mean the right to call the President of the United States a "buffoon," his secretary of defense a "racist" and his secretary of state a "murderer." It does not entail the right of these men to reply.

It is unfortunate that there have been some attempts, in and out of government, to equate dissent with disloyalty. In the face of the more extreme accusations that have been made against the nation and its leaders, it is a wonder there have not been more.

The President's statement should now make it clear that this is neither his way nor the traditional American way of doing things.

Even if the President is not believed, the fact remains that the war dissenters are and have been and will continue to be free to protest and demonstrate and express themselves all they want.

That they have so far failed to sway either the government or any great numbers of the people is more an indictment of their ideas and tactics than would be any misguided official or unofficial attempts to suppress them.

History will determine whether the dissenters are right or wrong about Vietnam. But one thing can be said with certainty today: The President was never more right when he said that freedom of speech will never harm America "as long as we remember it is a two - way street."

IN his weekly article in the Saturday Review, Granville Hicks used the word 'borborygmus.' Unfortunately, he spelled it with an extra 'y'. The mistake prompted 166 readers to write. Some were concerned about the spelling, but most of the readers wished to assure Hicks that they were familiar with the word, having encountered it in their reading of books by Aldous Huxley, Richard Haydn, and Graham Greene.

In the third Webster's International, borborygmus is defined as 'a rumbling sound made by the movement of gas in the intestine.' As unidentified rhymester put it this way:

I sat by the duchess at tea
It was just as I knew it would be
Her rumblings abdominal
Were simply abominable
And everyone blamed them on me.

Ogden Nash is also quoted:

Once my interal rumblings at parties
caused me to wish I could shrink to nothing, or at least to a pigmy,
But now I proudly inquire, Can everybody hear my borborygmi?

UNION OF STATES

In reforming our antiquated Electoral College system, sight must not be lost of the importance of maintaining the U.S. as a union of states. This can be done through adoption of a constitutional amendment placing the Congressional District Plan in effect. But adoption of the direct vote for President and Vice President would cause the Federal Government to come into the states to conduct each presidential election.

The Federal Government would establish rules for absentee voting. It would impose age limits for voting to apply to all states equally. In two states suffrage now begins at age 18; in one state at age 19, and in four states at age 20. Under the direct vote plan such differences between states would not be permitted. The central government also would come into the states to prescribe the required period of residence for suffrage.

The conduct of presidential elections within the states by the Federal Government would be the forerunner of its conducting the elections for U.S. senators, governors, congressmen, state legislators, county officials, mayors and school boards. In fact, election of the President by direct vote would be tantamount to electing senators and representatives on a national basis rather than each state and district electing its own. The final result probably would be a nationwide election of these officials without regard for their place of residence.

Any delegate voting system is better than direct voting. Abolition of the Electorcal College would mean election of the President without the states participating as individual entities. That would be a severe blow to the Republic. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Locked in secret files AF 12-567 and NDA 7-258 at the food and drug administration is disturbing evidence that the government's doctors are less assured than its spokesmen about the harmless effects of artificial sweeteners.

The soaring consumption of diet drinks and low-calorie desserts, indeed, has deepened the doctors' concern. Yet the FDA still stands on its May 20, 1965, announcement that "there is no evidence that cyclamates (sugar substitutes), at present use levels, are a hazard to health."

At the same time this conclusion was announced out of the front office, the doctors were expressing grave doubts in the back rooms. The conclusion supposedly was based upon "new experimental data of the safety of cyclamates, including animal studies, tests involving ingestion by children and other data."

However, this column has been given a surreptitious peek at file AF 12-567, which shows that the tests were just beginning at the time of the May, 1965, announcement. The results were carefully segregated, incidentally, so the doctors could not review the complete data but only the details that concerned them.

The FDA, having previously certified artificial sweeteners as safe, could hardly retract its endorsement without leaving the nation's food-and-beverage distributors with a lot of low-calorie soda pop on their hands.

Throughout the controversy, no one has been more eager to protect the public from the alleged evils of sugar substitutes than the sugar industry, which stands to lose millions because of the diet craze.

As early as 1964, the sugar foundation commissioned the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation to investigate the low-calorie threat. Its doctors triumphantly discovered that artificial sweeteners can stunt the growth of rats. Laboratory rats, treated to sugar-free soft drinks, suffered a 12 to 50 per cent loss of growth.

PEOPLE VS. RATS

The experiment brought an outraged howl from such enterprises as Abbott Laboratories, which produces cyclamates, and Royal Crown Cola, which was first on the market with Diet Cola. They protested that people, at least biologically speaking, aren't rats.

As the two rival industries squared off, information on cyclamates began to spill over the scientific embankment into the lay lands below.

FDA's doctors, in particular, became increasingly concerned over the mass usage of artificial sweeteners. A drop or two in a cup of coffee, they agreed, was no health menace. But evidence began to show up of adverse effects on people whose intake was heavy.

H. P. Packscher of food and drug put through a long-distance call to Abbott Laboratories in Chicago on March 4, 1965. He reached Hartley Ericson, then dictated a memo for the secret file.

"I called Mr. Ericson," Packscher dictated, "to arrange a meeting to discuss the data on Sucaryl (a sweetener) which Abbott submitted last fall, providing our staff members an opportunity to ask questions which they feel are unanswered in the submissions."

The meeting was held on March 17. A "memorandum of conference," summarizing the discussion, declared:

"The toxicologists report that the cyclamates are poorly absorbed and pharmacologically inert. The absorbed portion is excreted unchanged in the urine, while that remaining in the intestine provokes diarrhea when given in large amounts... clinically, the organ system about which there is some concern is the liver."

Because of the uncertainties, the doctors sought more data. It was agreed at a subsequent meeting, April 13, 1965, to go ahead with several tests. The confidential report of the discussion indicated a lack of enthusiasm by the Abbott representatives.

"The discussion of present and proposed studies in children," said the report, "brought out several problems, including issues which we had regarded as needing resolution... The Abbott representatives cited difficulties associated with developing long-term studies in children. Appropriate groups are difficult to find. Orphanages, for example, do not have many young children, and the older ones come in and go out of these institutions. Also, there are legal problems involved..

ABBOTT DRAGS HEELS

"Concerning the daily dose of cyclamates used in the study, the feeling was that higher doses would interfere with the children's eating habits. There will remains the question of what happens to children who drink 10 bottles of soft drink with artificial sweetener per day. At present there is no answer... the issue of cyclamate secretion in the milk of lactating mothers was raised, and the firm stated they are doing studies in animals."

Dr. G. R. Hazel of Abbott delivered a lecture on how insignificant a percentage of cyclamates goes into soft drinks.

"He stated further," said the report, "that probably less than 25 per cent of sugar is replaced by artificial sweeteners. Finally, Abbott feels the current proposals do not represent the end, but rather they are thinking in terms of three to five years to develop scientific and medical information on the cyclamates."

Without waiting for these studies, FDA issued its announcement that cyclamates were safe. But it didn't reckon with the sugar lobby, which brought pressure from Capitol Hill for a more thorough investigation.

FDA finally slipped a $46,000 contract to Albany Medical College under the guise of a pesticide study to look deeper into the health effects of artificial sweeteners. Dr. Frederick Coulston, who is directing the study, is not ready to announce the results.

But he would say this much: The use of artificial sweeteners should be restricted to persons who really need to cut out sugar. It is possible their use will get out of hand."

Note: Dr. Coulston claims FDA is now negotiating a new contract with him. But the FDA, in keeping with its secrecy over sweeteners, denied to this column that a new contract would be negotiated.

British Labor Government Moves Swiftly To Smash Black Power Racists Before Riots Can Hit Streets

LONDON -- The blunt words came quietly, but quite firmly, from one of Britain's highest leaders as we sat in one of the House of Commons' book-lined offices:

"The Labor government believes that all men are equal but no one is more equal than others simply because he is black, boisterous and inciting to riot. We won't have it."

Our conversation had centered around England's own Stokeley Carmichael -- a chap known variously as Michael X, Michael DeFreitas, and Michael Abdul Malik. He is the violence-peddling, 34-year-old, black-bearded, self-styled Muslim "leader," the power in the "Racial Adjustment Action Society."

Michael X, an ex-seaman born in Trinidad, speaking with relish and gore of having murdered a white man, stood in for Carmichael in an upland city when Laborite Home Secretary Roy Jenkins ordered the "American" out of Britain permanently for attempting to whip up riots.

It is, of course, consequential to note that Stokely Carmichael's associate here is a silk-shirted, chauffeur-driven, former racketeer who admits to having run brothels, strong-armed the poor, set Alsatian dogs on them, and slept better after his first murder. More on this in a moment to show the kind of associate Stokeley selects to speak for Britain's one million colored people (which, of course, he doesn't).

What is more immediate and vital to the Americans is the British Labor government's attitude toward those who would enflame the colored population of such "ghetto" cities as Manchester, Birmingham and Liverpool. Remember, this is a government of Socialists, left-wing and moderate, as well as of labor leaders. Every Laborite member of Parliament must be a member of a trade union.

So, no one can call it fascist or extremist.

But this Labor government sees no inconsistency in deporting aliens or indicting Britons who want to send hoodlums rioting and burning into the streets of their cities.

The Home Secretary, Roy Jenkins, is a veteran Laborite. His ministry oversees Scotland Yard. Its Special Branch does not surreptitiously dispatch detectives to stake out in secret meetings called by such as Michael X. The police simply stand there with their notebooks, getting the quotes, making certain of witnesses. Then they dispatch their reports to Mr. Jenkins.

He has the authority to deport the incendiaries such as Carmichael and Michael X. DeFreitas. It is not considered inconsistent with the Labor Party's democratic precepts to send "the chap packing." In the U.S., this would be almost impossible. The courts would drag the affair out for years while cities burned.

The Laborites, feeling no sense of psychological insecurity, do not listen idly to talk of the killing of "white monkeys" spouted by the so-called Muslims. They are developing the record on such as Michael DeFreitas when he shouts outside a university like the London School of Economics that "violence has been perpetrated against us and we shall have to use the same methods."

This sort of talk of blood-letting, now so prevalent in the U.S., is a violation of the Race Relations Act which cuts two ways. It will punish the colored as well as white violators. Under this law all are equal.

It took the Queen's Counsel, the Rt. Hon. Sir Dingle Foot, and the police authorities exactly three weeks to bring in an indictment against the Muslim's Michael X after he substituted for Stokely Carmichael at a public meeting in Reading. The British racist was charged with "intent to stir up hatred against a section of the public in Great Britain distinguished in color."

He was accused of using words likely to stir up hatred against that section "on the grounds of color."

The gaily bedecked, purple-shirted, gold-spangled Muslim laughed it off -- but he faces a sentence of two years in prison and a $2,800 fine. Not severe, but enough to teach him a lesson.

Nor are this government and its various commissions hesitant to launch "inquiries" before riots stir up bloody storms. One conference here called by the National Committee for Commonwealth Immigrants actually heard testimony from American labor officials. This government is not frightened of listening to anyone who can help, regardless of their origin.

Since riots and civil strife are everybody's concern, the Confederation of British Industries dispatched a prestigious delegation of its top leaders to a racial integration conference with an equally noted labor group at the Trades Union Congress headquarters last June. Thus the British counterparts of the U. S. National Assn. of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce discussed the common problem with the counterparts of the AFL-CIO.

But the Laborite Government is not waiting for commission or conference reports which will take eight to ten months. Nor is it piling up archives on which will rest the dust of royal tradition.

If a man has a racket record, the government is not bullied by his militant racial outcries. Thus in the case of Stokely Carmichael's counterpart here, the attorney general has Michael X's record. They know on what streets he ran his houses of prostitution. They know of his strong-arm work for a notorious slumlord called "Rachman" for whom Mike DeFreitas collected exhorbitant rents or frightened off poor families so their empty apartments could be leased at rentals beyond the rent-freeze limits. DeFreitas would smash gas meters, slash the electric power supply, sic dogs on the apartments of the poor, virtually all of them colored people.

He will not escape this record of violence and exploitation of his own people. He will not be permitted to unleash riots. The people here, white and black, know it.

Americans should know it too. They should know that this DeFreitas says he has been to Moscow and Cuba. They should know what manner of man is chosen by the Stokely Carmichaels. They should know that there is a government which does not believe it is indecent to crack down on the social racketeers before the hoodlums destroy society bit by bit.

Miss Tommye Elaine Blackwelder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Blackwelder, became the bride of Paul S. Hanna, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hanna of Portageville, Aug. 5 at 4 p.m. in the Northside Church of Christ.

The former Miss Blackwelder's headpiece was a satin cabbage rose securing a fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow daisies. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace.

Bridesmaids were Miss Deborah Hanna, sister of the groom, and Miss Laurel Bauschke of Corinth, Miss., a former roommate of the bride. They wore white floor-length gowns of bonded lace that were fashioned with A-line skirts, empire waistlines, scoop necklines and bell-shaped sleeves.

Ward Alan Hanna served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Dennis Moody of Blytheville, Ark., and Don Rone, Jr., of Portageville.

Ushers were Raymond and Johnnie Blackwelder, both brothers of the bride.

A reception was held at the church. The bride's table was covered with a white lace tablecloth and centered with a three tiered cake topped with a miniature bridal couple. A crystal punch bowl completed the table appointments. Serving the guests were Mrs. Marian Blackwelder of Memphis and Mrs. Charlene Blackwelder.

Mayor's Daughter Closes Show

NEW YORK (AP) - Kathy Lindsay is a tall, blonde teenager whose interests include show business and volunteer work and who also happens to be the daughter of New York's mayor.

This summer she managed to combine those specific interests by spending six weeks of her vacation staging puppet shows for children in slum areas.

Tuesday she rang down the curtain on her summer job with the Carver House Puppeteers in Spanish Harlem. The 25 youngsters in the troupe responded by presenting her a puppet named Peter.

Kathy, 16, eldest of the four Lindsay children, has been living in Gracie Mansion with her father while the rest of the family stayed in a house at Laurel Hollow, Long Island.

Each day the mayor's daughter commuted to work by bus and subway. "It's really been fun," she said. "I wasn't afraid to work here. There were no disturbances or tensions.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Hanna

Miss Tommye Elaine Blackwelder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Blackwelder, became the bride of Paul S. Hanna, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hanna of Portageville, Aug. 5 at 4 p.m. in the Northside Church of Christ.

The former Miss Blackwelder's headpiece was a satin cabbage rose securing a fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow daisies. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace.

Bridesmaids were Miss Deborah Hanna, sister of the groom, and Miss Laurel Bauschke of Corinth, Miss., a former roommate of the bride. They wore white floor-length gowns of bonded lace that were fashioned with A-line skirts, empire waistlines, scoop necklines and bell-shaped sleeves.

Ward Alan Hanna served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Dennis Moody of Blytheville, Ark., and Don Rone, Jr., of Portageville.

Ushers were Raymond and Johnnie Blackwelder, both brothers of the bride.

A reception was held at the church. The bride's table was covered with a white lace tablecloth and centered with a three tiered cake topped with a miniature bridal couple. A crystal punch bowl completed the table appointments. Serving the guests were Mrs. Marian Blackwelder of Memphis and Mrs. Charlene Blackwelder.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two shut outs reduced the Cardinals lead in the National League Tuesday night to 10 games. The Mets blanked St. Louis, 2-0, on Cal Koonce's five hitter and second place Cincinnati broke an eight game Philadelphia win streak, 1-0.

Koonce got all the runs he needed on Ron Swoboda's fifth inning solo homer and Jerry Grote's run scoring single in the sixth.

Phil Gagliano and Hughes each had two hits and Roger Maris got the other Cardinal safety.

The Mets will start Bill Friselia and the Cards are expected to call on Larry Jaster tonight.

Clete Boyer wasn't having one of his better nights. But with the kind of season Atlanta's veteran third baseman is having, even his errors turn out well.

Boyer made one of his rare errors in the eighth inning Tuesday night as Pittsburgh took a 3-2 lead against the Braves. Then in the bottom half of the inning, with Atlanta going to their bench for pinch hitters, Boyer climaxed a rally with his fifth career grand slam home run.

That gave the Braves a 7-3 victory and made a hero out of the potential goat. "I was looking for redemption instead of glory," said Boyer. He got it with his 23rd homer.

Boyer's two-base throwing error set up Bill Mazeroski's run-scoring single in the top of the eighth, snapping a 2-2 tie.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, San Francisco pounded Los Angeles 11-1 and Houston topped Chicago 5-3.

Boyer's grand slam was his second this season for the Braves. He has 81 runs batted in, only eight less than Aaron, and 15 more than Torre, the Braves' top sluggers.

The Pirates argued long and loud on the call at home plate when Torre scored on Tito Francona's hit with the tying run. Al Luplow, Andre Rodgers and Manager Danny Murtaugh were all thrown out.

Cincinnati used three pitchers --Gary Nolan, Billy McCool and Ted Abernathy -- to shut out the Phillies on seven hits. The defeat ended an eight-game Philadelphia winning streak.

Vada Pinson doubled in the seventh inning for the second hit off Jim Bunning and then came around on an infield out and Lee May's sacrifice fly for the only run of the game.

Hal Lanier drove in five runs for the Giants with a triple, two singles and a grounder against the Dodgers as Joe Gibbon breezed on a three-hitter.

Willie Mays, who had scored from second on a wild pitch Monday, raced home from first on a single and whacked his 17th homer as the Giants ended rookie Bill Singer's seven-game winning streak.

Jim Wynn capped a five-run eighth inning rally with his 31st home run -- a three-run shot that gave Houston its victory over Chicago.

Joe Niekro had the Astros shut out on five hits going into the eighth but singles by Ron Brand, Julio Gotay, Joe Morgan and Doug Rader produced two runs before Wynn connected.

In the American League, Boston's Red Sox were getting drowsy trying to hit Jim Bouton. Then Darrell Brandon hit Bouton without trying . . . and Horace Clarke sent everybody home to bed.

As a result, Bouton's marathon mark is intact and the Red Sox are tossing in their sleep.

Clarke's run-scoring single in the 20th inning gave the New York Yankees a 4-3 victory over Boston Tuesday night after the Red Sox had seized the American League lead by winning the doubleheader opener 2 - 1.

The split left the Sox a scant half game ahead of both the Minnesota Twins, who lost to Baltimore 4-3, and Detroit Tigers, who swept a twin bill at California 4-2 and 2-1.

Clarke's one-out hit in the 20th knocked in John Kennedy, who had singled and moved into scoring position when Boston reliever Brandon hit Yankee reliever Bouton with a pitch.

Bouton, recalled from the minors last week, pitched five innings of three-hit ball to earn his first victory of the season. Five years ago, Bouton was the winner in a seven-hour, 22-inning marathon at Detroit.

In Tuesday night's other AL action the Washington Senators beat Chicago 3-0, dropping the White Sox 2 1/2 games off the pace, and Cleveland edged Kansas City 9-8 in 10 innings.

Steve Whitaker's home run in the 11th after the Red Sox had grabbed a 3-2 lead in the top of the inning, and a spectacular throw by center fielder Bill Robinson kept the Yankees alive in the extra-inning struggle.

Robinson grabbed Reggie Smith's one-out drive in the 17th and doubled Mike Andrews at the plate with an on-the-fly strike. Boston outfielders Carl Yastrzemski and Smith had choked off a New York threat two innings earlier with successive diving catches.

The Red Sox took the first game behind right-hander Jim Lonborg, who fired a three-hitter for his 18th victory and drove in the deciding run with a seventh-inning single off loser Mel Stottlemyre. Lonborg also fanned 11 Yankees to take the league lead with 195 strikeouts.

Brooks Robinson's three-run double with two out in the sixth -- the first hit of Minnesota's Dave Boswell -- triggered Baltimore past the Twins. Robinson cleared the bases after three walks got Boswell in trouble.

The Orioles added a run in the eighth on a bases-loaded walk by reliever Ron Kline, then weathered a two-run Minnesota rally in the ninth.

Denny McLain fired a three-hitter in the first game and rookies John Hiller and Fred Lasher checked the Angels on eight hits in the nightcap as the surging Tigers ran their current string to 10 victories in 13 starts.

DID YOU KNOW--that Ted Williams pushed over 145 runs in 1939, his first season in the major leagues? Needless to say, Williams was one freshman who continued to shine after dropping the bush league halo from his head.

DID YOU KNOW--that the record for players getting hit with a pitched ball in the major leagues is nine! Detroit and Indianapolis of the 1887 American Association come up with that number.

DID YOU KNOW--that W. L. Young Bill Stribling is perhaps the only professional boxer, whose mother groomed him for a boxing career from the time he was old enough to walk? Ma Stribling also managed and supervised the training of her boy.

DID YOU KNOW--that in 1927, the Yankees established a record for home runs in a world series when they smacked out nine four-baggers?

DID YOU KNOW--that a Chicago high school boy hurled two consecutive no-hit ball games in the spring of 1946, and lost both of them?

DID YOU KNOW--that in March, 1916, Joe Gaddi, a referee in New York won three National AAU Boxing Titles in three different weight classes all on the same night? The middleweight, light-heavyweight and the heavyweight titles.

DID YOU KNOW--that on the opening day of the 1932 baseball season in the major leagues, the Yanks smacked five home runs and the Athletics two for an all-time opening day record of seven?

DID YOU KNOW--that in one year, American produced All-American football players bearing the names of Washington, Jefferson and Shakespeare?

DID YOU KNOW--that Babe Ruth's last appearance in a big league ball park was June 19th, 1948? The place, Sportsman Park, St. Louis, Missouri, but not as a player. It was a Junior Clinic before the Yanks-Browns game.

DID YOU KNOW--that the St. Louis Browns won the only pennant ever copped in the Union League and the Boston Red Sox did the same in the old Players League? Both loops operated for only one season.

DID YOU KNOW--that Henry Armstrong ALMOST won FOUR titles instead of three in the ring? After copping the feather, lightweight and welterweight crowns, he fought Ceferino Garcia a terrific draw for the NBA middleweight crown, even though he weighed but 142 pounds.

DID YOU KNOW--that the major leagues agreed upon 154 game schedules back in 1898? It was never changed until they added two extra teams, making 10 instead of 8.

Cardinals In Final Week of Preparation For Season

CHICAGO, Ill. -- This is the final week of training camp for ths Football Cardinals, who wind it up Friday night against the Chicago Bears, then head for St. Louis over the Labor Day weekend.

The Big Red and the Bears tangle at 8 p.m. (St. Louis time) Friday at mammoth Soldier Field in the annual Armed Forces Benefit game. The game will be televised live back to St. Louis over KMOX-TV, with Jack Drees and Mal Hammack doing the announcing. Radio broadcast, with Jay Randolph and Ray Geracy at the microphones, will originate over KMOX Radio for the Big Red network, and will be carried in St. Louis over KSD Radio.

A year ago, the Bears snapped a three-year Cardinal winning streak in this benefit game with a 22-20 victory, featuring five field goals by Roger Leclerc, who again will do the Bears' kicking.

Both clubs are coming back from defeats, with the Cardinals having bowed to Pittsburgh, 24-13, in Nashville on Saturday, and the Bears having been soundly beaten by the Kansas City Chiefs, 66-24, last Wednesday in Kansas City.

Jack Concannon, who came to the Bears from the Philadelphia Eagles in a spring trade, is scheduled to be the starting quarterback for Chicago. The Big Red will lead with Jim Hart who has completed 41 of 89 passes for 576 yards since being elevated to the starting role.

The Big Red used various combinations of players against the Steelers, with Roy Shivers the leading ground gainer. He picked up 32 yards in only four carries. John Roland, who gained 24 yards in six tries, is the leading Cardinal rusher after three pre-season games with 69 yards in 21 carries. Shivers is second with 54 yards in 13 tries.

Among the receivers, only two catches separate the top quartet. Bobby Joe Conrad tops the team with 10 catches. Billy Gambrell is second with nine, and Dave Williams and Jackie Smith share third with eight apiece. Smith paced the receivers against the Steelers with six for 99 yards, and Williams tops the group in yardage with 167, an average of 20.9 yards per catch.

No serious injuries were reported after the Saturday game, and everyone should be in playing shape to meet the Bears. It will be the first of two clashes this year, with the clubs also scheduled to tangle at Wrigley Field on November 19.

After the game, the Big Red will close its Lake Forest College camp and will gather in St. Louis to begin workouts on Labor Day. The Cardinals will have one more pre-season game at home, meeting the Lions on Friday, September 8, before opening the regular season at home on Sunday, September 17, against the New York Giants.

Tickets for the September 8 game, which is played for the benefit of the St. Louis Symphony Society, are on sale at the Cardinal ticket office, 200 Stadium Plaza. Tickets for all regular season games also are on sale there, with the office open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two shut outs reduced the Cardinals lead in the National League Tuesday night to 10 games. The Mets blanked St. Louis, 2-0, on Cal Koonce's five hitter and second place Cincinnati broke an eight game Philadelphia win streak, 1-0.

Koonce got all the runs he needed on Ron Swoboda's fifth inning solo homer and Jerry Grote's run scoring single in the sixth.

Dick Hughes, with one inning of relief help from Ron Willis, pitched a strong four hitter, but suffered his fifth setback against 13 victories.

Phil Gagliano and Hughes each had two hits and Roger Maris got the other Cardinal safety.

The Mets will start Bill Friselia and the Cards are expected to call on Larry Jaster tonight.

Clete Boyer wasn't having one of his better nights. But with the kind of season Atlanta's veteran third baseman is having, even his errors turn out well.

Boyer made one of his rare errors in the eighth inning Tuesday night as Pittsburgh took a 3-2 lead against the Braves. Then in the bottom half of the inning, with Atlanta going to their bench for pinch hitters, Boyer climaxed a rally with his fifth career grand slam home run.

That gave the Braves a 7-3 victory and made a hero out of the potential goat. "I was looking for redemption instead of glory," said Boyer. He got it with his 23rd homer.

Boyer's two-base throwing error set up Bill Mazeroski's run-scoring single in the top of the eighth, snapping a 2-2 tie.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, San Francisco pounded Los Angeles 11-1 and Houston topped Chicago 5-3.

Boyer's grand slam was his second this season for the Braves. He has 81 runs batted in, only eight less than Aaron, and 15 more than Torre, the Braves' top sluggers.

The Pirates argued long and loud on the call at home plate when Torre scored on Tito Francona's hit with the tying run. Al Luplow, Andre Rodgers and Manager Danny Murtaugh were all thrown out.

Cincinnati used three pitchers --Gary Nolan, Billy McCool and Ted Abernathy -- to shut out the Phillies on seven hits. The defeat ended an eight-game Philadelphia winning streak.

Vada Pinson doubled in the seventh inning for the second hit off Jim Bunning and then came around on an infield out and Lee May's sacrifice fly for the only run of the game.

Hal Lanier drove in five runs for the Giants with a triple, two singles and a grounder against the Dodgers as Joe Gibbon breezed on a three-hitter.

Willie Mays, who had scored from second on a wild pitch Monday, raced home from first on a single and whacked his 17th homer as the Giants ended rookie Bill Singer's seven-game winning streak.

Jim Wynn capped a five-run eighth inning rally with his 31st home run -- a three-run shot that gave Houston its victory over Chicago.

Joe Niekro had the Astros shut out on five hits going into the eighth but singles by Ron Brand, Julio Gotay, Joe Morgan and Doug Rader produced two runs before Wynn connected.

In the American League, Boston's Red Sox were getting drowsy trying to hit Jim Bouton. Then Darrell Brandon hit Bouton without trying . . . and Horace Clarke sent everybody home to bed.

As a result, Bouton's marathon mark is intact and the Red Sox are tossing in their sleep.

Clarke's run-scoring single in the 20th inning gave the New York Yankees a 4-3 victory over Boston Tuesday night after the Red Sox had seized the American League lead by winning the doubleheader opener 2 - 1.

The split left the Sox a scant half game ahead of both the Minnesota Twins, who lost to Baltimore 4-3, and Detroit Tigers, who swept a twin bill at California 4-2 and 2-1.

Clarke's one-out hit in the 20th knocked in John Kennedy, who had singled and moved into scoring position when Boston reliever Brandon hit Yankee reliever Bouton with a pitch.

Bouton, recalled from the minors last week, pitched five innings of three-hit ball to earn his first victory of the season. Five years ago, Bouton was the winner in a seven-hour, 22-inning marathon at Detroit.

In Tuesday night's other AL action the Washington Senators beat Chicago 3-0, dropping the White Sox 2 1/2 games off the pace, and Cleveland edged Kansas City 9-8 in 10 innings.

Steve Whitaker's home run in the 11th after the Red Sox had grabbed a 3-2 lead in the top of the inning, and a spectacular throw by center fielder Bill Robinson kept the Yankees alive in the extra-inning struggle.

Robinson grabbed Reggie Smith's one-out drive in the 17th and doubled Mike Andrews at the plate with an on-the-fly strike. Boston outfielders Carl Yastrzemski and Smith had choked off a New York threat two innings earlier with successive diving catches.

The Red Sox took the first game behind right-hander Jim Lonborg, who fired a three-hitter for his 18th victory and drove in the deciding run with a seventh-inning single off loser Mel Stottlemyre. Lonborg also fanned 11 Yankees to take the league lead with 195 strikeouts.

Brooks Robinson's three-run double with two out in the sixth -- the first hit of Minnesota's Dave Boswell -- triggered Baltimore past the Twins. Robinson cleared the bases after three walks got Boswell in trouble.

The Orioles added a run in the eighth on a bases-loaded walk by reliever Ron Kline, then weathered a two-run Minnesota rally in the ninth.

Denny McLain fired a three-hitter in the first game and rookies John Hiller and Fred Lasher checked the Angels on eight hits in the nightcap as the surging Tigers ran their current string to 10 victories in 13 starts.

Milk Clause Suspended

CHICAGO (AP) — The Department of Agriculture has announced suspension during September, October and November of the supply-demand adjustment for Class I fluid milk prices set by the St. Louis federal milk marketing order.

The order covers parts of Illinois, Missouri and Kentucky.

Officials of the federal agency's consumer and marketing service said the action continues for three more months the earlier suspension in effect from June through August 1967.

The suspension also will apply in the Ozarks, Southern Illinois and Paducah federal order markets, which use the St. Louis supply and demand adjustment, the agency said.

The previous suspension of adjustment was requested by a majority of dairy farmers in Ozarks, St. Louis and Southern Illinois markets, officials said, pending steps to amend it based on testimony at public hearings held in February and March.

Plane Designer Dies

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (AP) — William Hawley Bowlus, 72, who designed and built Charles Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis, died Sunday.

Religion Attracting Students

BOSTON (AP) - Religious interest is mounting on American college campuses, students from several of them said today. But they added that it's not the conventional type of religion.

"Some people may say God is dead, but students are proving He's not dead," said Daniel S. Jensen of Fresno, Calif., State College.

"Today's students are more concerned about religion, not less."

However, it's an exploratory, open-ended faith, minus many traditional forms and definitions, according to a sampling of youth at an international conference of Christian Science Youth.

Students "are looking for real answers," said Jeannie Kleinhammer of the University of Kansas. .Daniel Hill, a West Pointer added: "A real spiritual revolution is going on."

A score of others from across the nation made similar comments. They are among about 8,000 college students at the three-day conference which opened Thursday.

Several observed that students today show a rebellious streak, but that the rebellion is at fixed patterns of religion, not at the basis of it.

In a keynote address, Erwin D. Canham, editor in chief of the Christian Science Monitor, touched on the same point, saying:

"One of the few good things about the hipsters is their rejection of a materialistically orientated society. Also, I wish to endorse both love and flowers."

But he added that hippies distort attitudes into a useless escapism.

CAIRO (AP) — It was only a movie kiss between Egyptian actor Omar Sharif and Brooklyn-born Barbra Streisand but it has a Cairo magazine demanding, "Bar this effeminate actor from Arab nationality."

"Omar is no longer an Arab. He has no fidelity nor gratitude for his home country," said the magazine Kawakib.

THE LEAST ONE. By Borden Deal. Doubleday. $5.95.

BORDEN DEAL

Lee has lost his mortgaged farm and his mules, and cannot find work. But under a New Deal aid program he gets a pair of mules without having to make a down payment, and then a landowner accepts him in a pooled-work arrangement on his farm – a sort of communal arrangement of tenant sharecroppers.

The place is called – believe it or not – Bugscuffle Bottoms. The Swords are proud people despite their poverty – particularly Mrs. Sword – and it is a bitter blow to have to give up their independence.

But ingenuity, hard work and moral integrity help them pull through a series of misfortunes and accidents that would have ruined a less hardy family.

The hero and narrator of the book is "Boy." (His father had insisted that his sons choose their own names. John chose his when he was 10, but "Boy" stubbornly refused to. Significantly, there comes a time when he is no longer a boy, and makes the choice.)

It is a well-told tale of a youngster's life – his delight in his books and his dog, his fears, hates, humiliations and hopes. It is an adventure story, and it is a compassionate account of a brave family struggling against fate. It carries a wholesome, old-fashioned dedication to what is right.

Miles A. Smith

ORIENTAL COWGIRL tries her luck on a barrel bronc set up over the pool of a Tokyo hotel. Her mount is a saddled drum suspended from four ropes. The idea is to stay on the drum as long as possible while four people yank at the ropes causing the "bronc" to pitch and buck wildly.

Coffee Corner
by Cherie

Dear readers - lady readers that is - Charles just walked in and announced that the entertainment committee for the 101st Missouri Press Association meeting had been looking and looking and had finally found the perfect beautiful, blond, "go-go" girl for the big banquet, ---- "wasn't I excited?" "So who cares about watching a crummy "go-go" girl?" I ask. "Who cares, well just everybody, that's who!" Yeah, I thought everybody that will be there with trousers on that is. "O. K.", I said, "so you've got a "go-go" girl for the gents entertainment--- now, what will there be for the women?" Pure astonishment crosses his face --- "What else but a "go-go" girl could anyone want to see?" Well Buster, I've got a news flash for you --- I could care less about this blond bombshell and I'm sure every wife there feels just the same way. So, I thought I would sit right down and write the President's wife, Virginia Alice, to see if we couldn't come up with some idea, (I already had one sort of running around up there in all that empty space) for the ladies evening enjoyment. Then I realized that this problem was not a local, but a world-wide problem among females, and one of just as much importance as Eisenhower's sick stomach or the Kennedy's rapid birthrate, and yet we never get any news coverage. So, I hope Virginia won't mind if I make my letter to her public, for the benefit of all those other ladies like ourselves who are stuck evening after evening staring at loosely hung and even more loosely swung rhinestones and tassels.

Dear Virginia,

Charles has just told me how he and Oliver and Bill planned the Missouri press meeting and as long as this is a year of protesting stupid issues, I suggest we join ranks with the "hippies," (after all with us the term hippies at least now comes to have a relevant meaning), and protest!

I mean it is annoying to me just how much of a man's world it really is. For instance, Charles just finished walking in the door and plopping down all sorts of huge, three - day old greasy pots and pans for me to wash and return to various places. These were what was left of the Lions Club chicken fry of the other evening, and you know what? I didn't even get a chicken leg offered me, but look who's cleaning up the dirty dishes--- isn't that typical?? Men -- I can remember not so long ago in New Orleans, when we went out for the evening. Charles very graciously asked me what I wanted to do, (he always asks, just never listens), and I informed him I would just love to go and see the women impersonators at the Black Cat Club. "What?", he and the taxi driver screamed, "not a nice little lady like you?" "So," I said, "and what's wrong with that-- they don't do anything but sing, dance, and wait on tables, and it's a dern cinch they're not going to molest me." "Oh, no," they both chorused, "you wouldn't enjoy that." Well, I never got the chance to find out, and you know where we ended up? In a dive, watching Candy Bar swing, well swing everything, and me being given lewd stares by other patrons, (Charles didn't notice as he was too busy himself giving lewd stares to Candy Bar). I could have curled up and gone to sleep (if I'd dared), for all the entertainment this was for me, but Charles was so entertained he plumb forget my package of New Orleans souvenirs and left them under the table and they never were recovered!!

So Virginia, are we going to stand still and let this happen to us again and again. I for one am going to stand up and holler. I don't mind if the boys want their "go-go" girl, in fact, I think its great --- but, I want some "go - go" boys for us! Don't you think about six well-dressed and polite gigolos could manage to get around to all of us gals at least once for a dance? They could be hired to whirl us around the floor admire our new frocks, and tell us how lovely we look, (the men will be too busy with their eyes full of tassels to notice any new chiffons we might have on), and then thank us for the dance and go on to the next lovely lady. I mean it would do wonders for my morale to be asked to dance, instead of having to first kick a certain someone on the shin and glare at him to even manage to get that one duty foxtrot in, and to be thanked afterwards, well, that would just be supreme ecstasy. Anyway, I am sure we ladies could put up with the gents ladies much easier, if we ladies had a few gents of our own. Please ask Oliver, to check the budget and if there is not quite enough for project gigolo, he can take up a collection from each girl at the meeting.

Looking forward to seeing you and your family, and to dancing up a storm.

A committee of one for the betterment of the ladies entertainment,

Cherie.

Longer Bombing Pause Hinted

SAIGON (AP) -- Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieur, the front-running military candidate for president in Sunday's elections, said today that if elected he may try to halt the bombing of North Vietnam for more than the one week he has been proposing.

A longer pause would depend on a favorable response from Hanoi and on agreement from the United States, Thieu stressed in a talk with newsmen after a campaign speech to more than 10,000 Vietnamese troops.

Artillery roaring in the background and jets from nearby Tan Son Nhut airbase someies drowned out Thieu and civilian candidates as they spoke to the soldiers in the biggest political rally so far.

Thieu told the troops: "We are ready to negotiate. The problem is whether North Vietnam will accept. It is up to them."

He told newsmen later that if elected, "I will talk to North Vietnam first. If I get a favorable response, then I will talk to the Americans and may ask for more than one week."

Observers in Saigon, however, think it unlikely that the United States would go along with even a one-week pause in air strikes unless Hanoi indicated it would reciprocate.

Thieu and his vice presidential running mate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, appear certain to carry the rural areas where 80 per cent of South Vietnam's 5.85 million voters live and to win the election, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Lee has lost his mortgaged farm and his mules, and cannot find work. But under a New Deal aid program he gets a pair of mules without having to make a down payment, and then a landowner accepts him in a pooled-work arrangement on his farm – a sort of communal arrangement of tenant sharecroppers.

The place is called – believe it or not – Bugscuffle Bottoms. The Swords are proud people despite their poverty – particularly Mrs. Sword – and it is a bitter blow to have to give up their independence.

But ingenuity, hard work and moral integrity help them pull through a series of misfortunes and accidents that would have ruined a less hardy family.

The hero and narrator of the book is "Boy." (His father had insisted that his sons choose their own names. John chose his when he was 10, but "Boy" stubbornly refused to. Significantly, there comes a time when he is no longer a boy, and makes the choice.)

It is a well-told tale of a youngster's life – his delight in his books and his dog; his fears, hates, humiliations and hopes. It is an adventure story, and it is a compassionate account of a brave family struggling against fate. It carries a wholesome, old-fashioned dedication to what is right.

ORIENTAL COWGIRL tries her luck on a barrel bronc set up over the pool of a Tokyo hotel. Her mount is a saddled drum suspended from four ropes. The idea is to stay on the drum as long as possible while four people yank at the ropes causing the "bronc" to pitch and buck wildly.

Coffee Corner
by Cherie

Dear readers - lady readers that is - Charles just walked in and announced that the entertainment committee for the 101st Missouri Press Association meeting had been looking and looking and had finally found the perfect beautiful, blond, "go-go" girl for the big banquet, ---- "wasn't I excited?" "So who cares about watching a crummy "go-go" girl?" I ask. "Who cares, well just everybody, that's who!" Yeah, I thought everybody that will be there with trousers on that is. "O. K.", I said, "so you've got a "go-go" girl for the gents entertainment--- now, what will there be for the women?" Pure astonishment crosses his face --- "What else but a "go-go" girl could anyone want to see?" Well Buster, I've got a news flash for you --- I could care less about this blond bombshell and I'm sure every wife there feels just the same way. So, I thought I would sit right down and write the President's wife, Virginia Alice, to see if we couldn't come up with some idea, (I already had one sort of running around up there in all that empty space) for the ladies evening enjoyment. Then I realized that this problem was not a local, but a world-wide problem among females, and one of just as much importance as Eisenhower's sick stomach or the Kennedy's rapid birthrate, and yet we never get any news coverage. So, I hope Virginia won't mind if I make my letter to her public, for the benefit of all those other ladies like ourselves who are stuck evening after evening staring at loosely hung and even more loosely swung rhinestones and tassels. Dear Virginia,

Charles has just told me how he and Oliver and Bill planned the Missouri press meeting and as long as this is a year of protesting stupid issues, I suggest we join ranks with the "hippies," (after all with us the term hippies at least now comes to have a relevant meaning), and protest!

I mean it is annoying to me just how much of a man's world it really is. For instance, Charles just finished walking in the door and plopping down all sorts of huge, three - day old greasy pots and pans for me to wash and return to various places. These were what was left of the Lions Club chicken fry of the other evening, and you know what? I didn't even get a chicken leg offered me, but look who's cleaning up the dirty dishes --- isn't that typical?? Men -- I can remember not so long ago in New Orleans, when we went out for the evening. Charles very graciously asked me what I wanted to do, (he always asks, just never listens), and I informed him I would just love to go and see the women impersonators at the Black Cat Club. "What?", he and the taxi driver screamed, "not a nice little lady like you?" "So," I said, "and what's wrong with that-- they don't do anything but sing, dance, and wait on tables, and it's a dern cinch they're not going to molest me." "Oh, no," they both chorused, "you wouldn't enjoy that." Well, I never got the chance to find out, and you know where we ended up? In a dive, watching Candy Bar swing, well swing everything, and me being given lewd stares by other patrons, (Charles didn't notice as he was too busy himself giving lewd stares to Candy Bar). I could have curled up and gone to sleep (if I'd dared), for all the entertainment this was for me, but Charles was so entertained he plumb forget my package of New Orleans souvenirs and left them under the table and they never were recovered!!

So Virginia, are we going to stand still and let this happen to us again and again. I for one am going to stand up and holler. I don't mind if the boys want their "go-go" girl, in fact, I think its great --- but, I want some "go - go" boys for us! Don't you think about six well-dressed and polite gigolos could manage to get around to all of us gals at least once for a dance? They could be hired to whirl us around the floor admire our new frocks, and tell us how lovely we look, (the men will be too busy with their eyes full of tassels to notice any new chiffons we might have on), and then thank us for the dance and go on to the next lovely lady. I mean it would do wonders for my morale to be asked to dance, instead of having to first kick a certain someone on the shin and glare at him to even manage to get that one duty foxtrot in, and to be thanked afterwards, well, that would just be supreme ecstasy. Anyway, I am sure we ladies could put up with the gents ladies much easier, if we ladies had a few gents of our own. Please ask Oliver, to check the budget and if there is not quite enough for project gigolo, he can take up a collection from each girl at the meeting.

Looking forward to seeing you and your family, and to dancing up a storm.

Mobile Film Library To Begin Visits

NEW MADRID -- The New Madrid county co-operative film library mobile unit will begin its weekly visits to county schools Monday.

The library has been in operation one year. An attendance of more than 215,000 New Madrid county school children viewed films furnished by the library during the 1966-67 school term.

Mondays - Portageville public, Portageville Catholic, Conran, Marston, Lilbourn, Howardville and Boekerton.

Longer Bombing Pause Hinted

SAIGON (AP) -- Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieur, the front-running military candidate for president in Sunday's elections, said today that if elected he may try to halt the bombing of North Vietnam for more than the one week he has been proposing.

A longer pause would depend on a favorable response from Hanoi and on agreement from the United States, Thieu stressed in a talk with newsmen after a campaign speech to more than 10,000 Vietnamese troops.

Artillery roaring in the background and jets from nearby Tan Son Nhut airbase someies drowned out Thieu and civilian candidates as they spoke to the soldiers in the biggest political rally so far.

Thieu told the troops: "We are ready to negotiate. The problem is whether North Vietnam will accept. It is up to them."

He told newsmen later that if elected, "I will talk to North Vietnam first. If I get a favorable response, then I will talk to the Americans and may ask for more than one week."

Observers in Saigon, however, think it unlikely that the United States would go along with even a one-week pause in air strikes unless Hanoi indicated it would reciprocate.

Thieu and his vice presidential running mate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, appear certain to carry the rural areas where 80 per cent of South Vietnam's 5.85 million voters live and to win the election, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Ann Landers

Great Men Identify Themselves

Dear Ann Landers: I reply to the Sacramento reader who described himself as a "busy executive" and resented being asked his name or the nature of his business by "self-important" secretaries.

As a secretary who has worked in both private industry and government I can tell you that the bigger the man, the more humble and courteous he is, on the phone as well as in person. I served as secretary to the late Honorable Adlai E. Stevenson when he was in Washington on United Nations business. Mr. Stevenson never failed to identify himself when he placed a call personally.

President Kennedy did the same. Many an astonished secretary nearly dropped the phone when she heard that famous voice say, "This is Jack Kennedy. Is Mr. Doe in?"

So please tell that joker out in California that if two of the greatest men of our century can identify themselves when they want to speak to someone, he can, too. --FLORIDA.

Dear Florida: Amen, Sister, Amen.

Dear Ann Landers: Usually your advice is sound and solid, but I was badly let down when you told the man who seduced a young, innocent girl that he had no reason to feel guilty. Your words were: "After all, you didn't chloroform her. It's up to the young lady to call the signals and hold that line."

I don't buy your theory that if a guy doesn't use chloroform he needn't have any twinges of conscience. Some girls at 15 are very mature. They know all the answers. Others at 15 are children. They may appear worldly-wise and talk a good game, but they don't have any real information. These girls are pathetically vulnerable and they often wind up in trouble.

My father was a wise and wonderful man. He taught his sons that honorable men don't deceive girls to obtain sex satisfaction and that virgins were strictly off limits. -- E.U.H. OF DANVILLE

Dear E.U.H.: The world could use more fathers like the one you had. But my advice still stands. I, too, feel sorry for the girls who get conned, but one of my chief missions is to wake up these sleeping beauties. The best approach is to let them know they must watch out for themselves. Most boys didn't have fathers like yours. They will take anything that's offered plus whatever they can talk a girl out of.

Dear Ann: Recently I read where a high school girl wanted to know if she should take a picture of her friend in the casket and give it to the bereaved parents. You were somewhat noncommittal. I wish you had told her NO.

My mother died when I was 12. An aunt took pictures of her in the casket -- two large photographs on slick paper and several smaller snapshots. Her face looked painted, like a doll's, and the expression on her mouth was cruel -- one I had never seen.

That was 46 years ago, Ann, and those pictures still haunt me. I have never forgotten how Mother looked when she was alive, her beautiful, sparkly blue eyes and her warm smile, but the picture in the casket always comes first. After a shudder or two it fades away, but it's always first. It's a terrible mistake to take a picture of a person after death. Please tell your readers not to do it. -- A DEVOTED READER

Dear Reader: I agree. From now on when asked I will no longer be noncommittal. I shall remember your letter and say "no."

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Wm. Pate, who is rebuilding the home of Celestine Finley, reports that at the top of a joist and studding a swarm of bees had settled and started housekeeping. They had built five layers of comb 9 1/2 inches across and 17 inches long, which they had partly filled with honey. The bees were architects and evidently knew their business as the comb was built at an angle of 45 degrees to the studding in order to brace the comb. It was necessary to kill the bees with smoke before proceeding with the work.

Report From Washington
Stuart Symington

VETERANS BENEFITS -- Omnibus bills which would increase benefits under the existing G. I. Bill and provide wartime benefits to veterans who have served during the Vietnam Era -- since Aug. 5, 1964-- have been cleared by the House and Senate for the President's signature.

For the first time Cold War and Vietnam veterans will be eligible for benefits for on-the-job, on-the-farm and in-flight training.

In addition the bill increases payments from $100 to $130 for single veterans whose service began after Jan. 31, 1955. Veterans with one dependent will receive an increase from $125 to $155, and veterans with two dependents will receive an increase from $150 to $175. Veterans who have not completed high school will now be able to receive educational allowances in preparation for advanced education.

Another provision of the bill increases the maximum VA home loan from $17,500 to $25,000 in areas where the Veterans Administration determines that cost levels require these increased loans.

A cost-of-living increase is provided for veterans and dependents under a current pension program who have suffered non-service connected disabilities.

ACCIDENT SPOTTING --The Federal government is cooperating with our State in a $12 million "spot improvement" safety program to eliminate high-accident locations from Missouri's highway system.

Since March 1964, Missouri has programmed 55 accident location improvement projects. The program includes widening bridges, traffic lanes and shoulders; realigning curves and slopes for better sight distances; reconstruction of intersections, and improvement of traffic signal systems.

CIGARETTES--The Consumer Subcommittee of the Senate Commerce Committee held hearings last week to review the progress being made toward the development and marketing of a less hazardous cigarette.

The U.S. Public Health Service has recently released the 1967 Surgeon General's report on "The Health Consequences of Smoking." Since 1964, more than 2,000 additional research studies have confirmed that "Cigarette smoking is a health hazard of sufficient importance in the United States to warrant appropriate remedial action." If You Were the Judge

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Minnie was a very reputable real estate broker. Entering a supermarket she picked up three pounds of chopped beef and stuffed it into her purse. The result? She was charged with larceny and proceedings were started to revoke her broker's license because of the dastardly deed.

"We caught her dead to rights," the judge was told. "She tried to walk out of the supermarket with a pocketbook full of unpaid for chopped meat."

"I'm sorry," was Minnie's answer, "but I didn't know what I was doing. I've been undergoing change of life and I've been under so much stress and strain that I just don't know whether I'm coming or going."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Minnie of trying to abscond with the chopped meat and would you revoke her brokerage license for doing it?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that when a woman goes through a change of life and competent medical evidence supports the fact that the stress and strain and anxiety of it has caused her to become mentally disabled, so as to prevent her from being able to form a rational intent to commit larceny, she cannot be held accountable for walking out of a supermarket with a pocketbook full of unpaid for chopped meat.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I would like to convey my thanks to all participating in the (Missourians Youth Clean Up Campaign), especially the teenagers who worked so whole heartedly, and the young adults that has made this working force a big reality. I want to thank the newly formed organization, "Recovery Inc.," for their splendid help. Thanks to the city for their equipment. Our youth became so enthused about the work they were doing and a chance to have a responsible position in doing this job, they wanted a plan where as they wouldn't have to desperse themselves for lunch. So with no real hope at all of achieving much we picked the retail grocers for a plan of feeding the young working crew the response to the idea of helping those who help themselves were overwhelming. Our first call was Lindsey's M and H, and he consented to donate the necessary meats for snacks. That gave us confidence to call others. We wish to thank you Larry for starting our ball to rolling. After the call to Lindsey's M and H we continued to call all other grocers: Home owned, large and small. They all responded very nicely. And in behalf of the Missourian's men club I wish to give my personal thanks to the merchants that donated paint, to the grocers that donated snacks, and last but not least, those who cooperated with us in our clean up campaign; land owners, home owners, renters, and the proud parents of the working youth. Aren't you proud and glad to know that our youth want responsibility too. You should be! They have proven themselves, now lets keep our youth's chins up.

DAILY SIKESTON STANDARD

In the midst of the whistling bombs on Vietnam, the roars of the mobs in Detroit, the screams of the hate-mongers and war-mongers, there is a deadly silence. It is a silence felt and heard by the entire world. American Patriots are mute. This voicelessness must cease. Communism and atheism must be stopped. Freedomists must shout to the world love of freedom and justice. Good examples could be followed of those who have the courage and energy to speak out in behalf of our Republic; for from those few will come new Laws, new Freedoms, new Faith. "Hate" should be left to the opposition who like to use it while accusing others of hate-mongering. Once again silence will be heard; the silence of the fallen opponents of freedom.

Constructively,

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

My speech and my message were not in plausible words of wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and power, that your faith might not rest in the wisdom of men but in the power of God. (I Corinthians 2:4-5, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear God, we live in an age which worships the power in scientific discovery and wisdom. Help us to open our hearts and lives to the inspiration of the Holy Spirit and come to know Thee better through faith in Thy Son, in whose name we offer this prayer. Amen.

Ann Landers

Great Men Identify Themselves

Dear Ann Landers: I reply to the Sacramento reader who described himself as a "busy executive" and resented being asked his name or the nature of his business by "self-important" secretaries.

As a secretary who has worked in both private industry and government I can tell you that the bigger the man, the more humble and courteous he is, on the phone as well as in person. I served as secretary to the late Honorable Adlai E. Stevenson when he was in Washington on United Nations business. Mr. Stevenson never failed to identify himself when he placed a call personally.

President Kennedy did the same. Many an astonished secretary nearly dropped the phone when she heard that famous voice say, "This is Jack Kennedy. Is Mr. Doe in?"

So please tell that joker out in California that if two of the greatest men of our century can identify themselves when they want to speak to someone, he can, too. --FLORIDA.

Dear Florida: Amen, Sister, Amen.

Dear Ann Landers: Usually your advice is sound and solid, but I was badly let down when you told the man who seduced a young, innocent girl that he had no reason to feel guilty. Your words were: "After all, you didn't chloroform her. It's up to the young lady to call the signals and hold that line."

I don't buy yourtheory that if a guy doesn't use chloroform he needn't have any twinges of conscience. Some girls at 15 are very mature. They know all the answers. Others at 15 are children. They may appear worldly-wise and talk a good game, but they don't have any real information. These girls are pathetically vulnerable and they often wind up in trouble.

My father was a wise and wonderful man. He taught his sons that honorable men don't deceive girls to obtain sex satisfaction and that virgins were strictly off limits. -- E.U.H. OF DANVILLE

Dear E.U.H.: The world could use more fathers like the one you had. But my advice still stands. I, too, feel sorry for the girls who get conned, but one of my chief missions is to wake up these sleeping beauties. The best approach is to let them know they must watch out for themselves. Most boys didn't have fathers like yours. They will take anything that's offered plus whatever they can talk a girl out of.

Dear Ann: Recently I read where a high school girl wanted to know if she should take a picture of her friend in the casket and give it to the bereaved parents. You were somewhat noncommittal. I wish you had told her NO.

To the Editor
DAILY SIKESTON STANDARD

In the midst of the whistling bombs on Vietnam, the roars of the mobs in Detroit, the screams of the hate-mongers and war-mongers, there is a deadly silence. It is a silence felt and heard by the entire world. American Patriots are mute. This voicelessness must cease. Communism and atheism must be stopped. Freedomists must shout to the world love of freedom and justice. Good examples could be followed of those who have the courage and energy to speak out in behalf of our Republic; for from those few will come new Laws, new Freedoms, new Faith. "Hate" should be left to the opposition who like to use it while accusing others of hate-mongering. Once again silence will be heard; the silence of the fallen opponents of freedom.

Constructively,

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

My speech and my message were not in plausible words of wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and power, that your faith might not rest in the wisdom of men but in the power of God. (I Corinthians 2:4-5, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear God, we live in an age which worships the power in scientific discovery and wisdom. Help us to open our hearts and lives to the inspiration of the Holy Spirit and come to know Thee better through faith in Thy Son, in whose name we offer this prayer. Amen.

Brush Fire Under Control

LOS ANGELES (AP)— A potentially disastrous brush fire in the Granada Hills area of many expensive homes was controlled today after more than five hours of furious fire-fighting efforts.

Twelve fire department units remained on patrol duty to prevent possible new flareups in the San Fernando Valley community. There had been 350 men and 40 pieces of equipment used at one time.

The fire department said it had reports of six houses destroyed or damaged but a final count was yet to be completed.

Battalion Chief Patrick Ferguson at one time estimated the burned acreage at 1,200 but after daylight the department said the scorched area actually was confined to about 500 acres.

The only injury reported was one unidentified fireman who suffered an eye injury.

There are many houses in the $40,000 to $70,000 range in the area bordering Knollwood Country Club in the foothills of the San Gabriel Mountains.

Many persons packed belongings into cars and fled the scene temporarily although the fire department did not officially order evacuation.

Flames and smoke could be seen in downtown Los Angeles, 25 miles southeast of the fire scene. The fire attracted so many curious spectators that at times emergency units were impeded by traffic jams, police reported.

The temperature climbed to 107 in the area Tuesday.

Some of the services which may be used by any community with a service unit include: Clothing and shoes for children, dental care, eye examinations, free fresh air camps for the needy, hearing test, wheelchairs for community use, mobile canteen service, temporary aid to fire victims.

Most of the referral are made through county and state welfare offices who cannot help in particular situations because of their limitations by law, Sharp said.

The Salvation Army is a religion. Its officers are ordained Salvationists educated in one of their four training schools in the United States.

The Army's origins sprung from the London slums in the 1860's where the first programs established were the one-cent soup kitchens. Later, clothing was collected from churches for the poor and men's social programs were set up. Each function provided by the Army grew from a need, Sharp said.

He spoke on the Army's work and his personal experiences at the Kiwanis Club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce meetings Tuesday night.

Sharp is the first of eight representatives of the United Fund agencies to appear here. Next Wednesday, William M. Gourlay, Memphis, regional director of the U.S.O., will speak to the Sikeston Lions Club.

Other agencies in the fund who will have representatives speak later include, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Civil Air Patrol, Sikeston Welfare Office, American Red Cross, and the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

The goal of the drive this year is $56,634. Two phases of the drive have already started: Payroll deductions of employees, and out-of-town business solicitation.

The major kickoff of the local business solicitation will be held at 2 p.m. Sept. 8 at an undesignated point, Matthews said.

A house-to-house canvass will be conducted later.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 30, the 242nd day of 1967. There are 123 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1645, a peace treaty was made by the Dutch and Indians at New Amsterdam.

On this date:

In 30 B.C. Cleopatra killed herself by letting an asp bite her.

In 1780, Benedict Arnold sent a message to the British that he would surrender the American fort at West Point.

In 1924, the Dawes plan was signed in London, arranging the payment of Germany's World War I reparations.

In 1945, Gen. Douglas MacArthur arrived in Japan at the end of World War II and set up headquarters in Yokohama.

Also in 1945, an international committee indicted 24 top German leaders as major war criminals.

Ten years ago — U.S. officials said it was known that the Soviet Union had tested several intercontinental ballistic missiles.

One year ago — French President Charles de Gaulle arrived in Cambodia and was praised for his opposition to the Vietnam war.

It can at least be said for our civilization, as against the Red Chinese, that what we usually write on walls is who's in love with whom.

A MESSAGE TO UNION WORKERS

These thoughts are addressed to our millions of working men and women who, as a whole, represent one of our finest segments of American citizens.

The vast majority would give their lives to protect America, their homes and loved ones in any war threatening our freedoms. Here are millions of our folks who together can increase their effectiveness a thousandfold in a comparatively short time towards preservation of our freedoms and insure the enjoyment of same by our children and grandchildren.

History is jammed with names of men, groups of men, parties and coalitions, all imbued with unholy ambition to control as many people as possible and enjoy therefrom the power, prestige and material wealth wrung from the toil, sweat, tears, suffering and frustration of the many. History is repeating itself in America, and we have allowed control over us to reach an all-time high.

Why, oh why, must men and women, especially in our enlightened America, become so satisfied with our luxurious living that we forget to think, to act for ourselves and, by pure forfeiture to unscrupulous and power-hungry pied pipers, gradually lose our freedoms?

Our country is still supposed to be a government "of the people, by the people and for the people." In proportion to our (the people's) apathy, laziness and do-nothing attitudes to keep our freedoms, we are gradually losing our control to bureaucratic minorities.

Now, why do I elaborate so much about these thoughts in a chapter on union workers? It is because the time is long past due for union members to draft their own Declaration of Independence, Constitution, and Bill of Rights. Until they do, they will never enjoy unions of the members, by the members and for the members. It will be a job for the big majority of union workers and all of them will have to change from lethargic apathy and, in some areas, fear, to militant fighters. For too long union members have allowed the mushrooming of bureaucratic and, in many instances, mob control to gain a stronger and stronger stranglehold over their lives and those of their families.

Of course we know that there are good unions, staffed by patriotic, honest, efficient men, working tirelessly for the members of their unions. The big reward these men enjoy is the good they can do for others. They are not interested in Napoleonic power or materialistic gains at the expense of their union members. They know too that the labor unions are just one segment of our society, and that cooperative meshing with other segments secures more benefits, present and future, for their member and America as a whole.

However, we can never forget that there are always unscrupulous, ambitious men scheming and plannting to control the masses.

Our Founding Fathers knew this only too well. That is why they drafted our Constitution with checks and restructions that would, to the maximum, protect us from future ambitious tyrants.

There never was a better time or climate to incorporate into the laws of our land a Constitution for Union Members. It is just as necessary, as were our Anti Trust Laws of years ago, to curb and hold down excesses of power in the employer segment of our society.

Let us pattern our Union Members' Declaration of Independence from that of our United States.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE
OF ALL UNION MEMBERS IN OUR UNITED STATES

When in the course of time it becomes necessary for a large segment of a free people to throw off the increasing bonds of increasing, unscrupulous, controlling minorities; to fully democratize our segment of society and insure future free democracy; to bring back a decent respect for the other segments of the society of our great America, with renewed understanding that each and every segment of our society is dependent upon each other, and maximum, sensible cooperation fit for all; to eliminate all present or future fear and insure the rebirth of our own self-respect and freedoms, we hereby declare the causes that impel us to action.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, the right to honest work wherever, whenever and for whom they please, without any restrictions or compulsory demands or dictates of any kind or nature, and the pursuit of happiness free from coercions and fears of withheld work, bodily harm to self and loved loved ones, and destruction of homes or other property.

That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.

That unions in our America have come into being and grown like Topsy, without constitutional law laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them (union members) shall seem most likely to effect their freedom, safety and happiness.

All experience hath shewn that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty to throw off such yoke and to provide new guards for their future security.

We therefore, the union members of each and every one of our fifty states, do hereby petition to all United States senators and representatives of both parties for our respective states and signed hereby by the big majority of our union members, do request that federal laws be drawn for our first approval, and after so approved by the majority of us, be processed into the law of our land for our protection and the best interests of all segments of our society, which interwoven together will insure our future freedoms:

1. Provide for the election of all union officers by free and secret ballots. Provide for dues assessments and expenditures only by free and secret ballots.

2. Provide for effective recall and ouster proceedings for officers who misuse their powers.

3. Provide for fiduciary restrints upon union pensions and any and all other union funds as exacting as those set upon bankers and any other managers of other peoples' money, with insurance bonds to cover any defalcations.

4. Provide for annual audits and full public knowledge of all receipts and expenditures. We (the union members) are a large segment of the public and never-more want to be shocked or ashamed of what is done with our savings and money in any funds.

5. Provide heavy penalties against anyone or more who are convicted of threatening, coercing or harming the person or any relative of any union member or damaging in any way any of his personal or real property.

6. Realizing the terrific job of truly democratizing our unions in the mess too many of them are in today, our present total lack of control and, for many of us, the degradation and frustration of being cowed and afraid, we request that there be included in our new laws a federal right-to-work chapter, forbiding compulsory membership in any union. The vast majority of us will choose and join the unions of our choice in the areas where we work and where we are satisfied. We do not ever want to be forced into any union foreign to our knowledge or control. We want our inalienable right and freedom to join or not to join the local unions where we work or any other union anywhere.

7. Last, but not least, include anti-trust provisions restricting any and all union officials from negating any of the foregoing, and positive elimination of all powers to stop, close or in any way tie up plants, industries, transportation, or public facilities nationwide or over large areas of our country, which cost our union workers billions of lost dollars and can prostrate our America and make it a sitting duck for any sneak attack by an ambitious Russia.

There are only two pathways-only two steps for those millions of fine Americans (our union workers) to select.

First, do nothing-coast-do everything your uncontrolled leaders tell you to do-vote for those uncontrolled congressmen they recommend, thereby speeding the date of our total control under an ISM government from which dwindling purchasing power, handouts and doles to all of us will be gall and hell on earth.

Or, second, by the millions decide to throw off your yoke of servitude to uncontrolled leaders, demand from Congress your own Constitution, select and elect leaders who should and will be your servants, vote your own choice of congressmen whom you think best for America. Get control of your union destiny back in your grasp, and cooperate with all other segments of our society, which have the best chance-maybe our last chance-of saving our republic-our America.

It is up to the union members (the people). Let everything slide down the road toward more and more loss of your freedoms, or cooperatively, by millions, petition all national senators and representatives in your respective states under your Declaration of Independence and request that your Union Consitution be written into the law of our land.

Last Mining Exchange Deal Closed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Penny stocks are scrambling to other Western markets from the deathbed of their true love, the San Francisco Mining Exchange.

Since the Gold Rush days she had wooed speculators with a gambler's chance to make a fortune, or lose one. Her's was the lure of gold, silver, copper, uranium at the penny arcade prices of mining companies trying to make a name and a mint.

She died impoverished, almost deserted and in disgrace.

But her passing was mourned by a handful of followers. They came for days after the close to sit facing the empty green chart boards in room 200 at 256 Montgomery Street.

Thirty-one mining companies stayed until the end, then hurried away to seek listings on exchanges in Salt Lake City, Spokane, Calgary, Vancouver, or Pacific Coast Stock Exchange in San Francisco and Los Angeles, or to establish a market in over-the-counter trading.

On the last day only two brokers remained. Business had dwindled from $8 million in 1956, during a uranium revival, to $2 million last year to $725,000 for the six months this year.

The death knell was sounded in 1962 by the Securities Exchange Commission, the government agency which polices stock and bond markets. In its first move of the kind, the SEC threatened to lift the mining exchange's franchise.

The SEC charged, among other things, that the exchange was attempting to distribute "substantially worthless" securities; that there were irregularities involving 16 of the 42 companies then listed, and that the SEC had to step in and stop trading in 27 securities between 1934 and 1962.

For five years the exchange fought back. But volume "diminished to the point where further operation is not feasible," said President George J. Flach
